PRES. WILSON ARRIVES HOME FROM EUROPE

THWART PLOT TO MURDER WILSON

Fourteen Anarchists Are Arrested in New York and Mute Evidence Found.

MEN PREPARING BOMB

Secret Service Agents and Police Say Intention of Reds Was to Hurl Explosive at President on Boston Street.

New York, Feb. 24.—What is believed to have been an attempt upon the life of President Wilson in Boston after he had passed ten weeks abroad in security was thwarted by vigilance of United States secret service agents and quick action by the New York police.

Anarchists of three cities—New York, Boston and Philadelphia—are thought to have been behind the plot, which was to hurl a bomb at the chief executive as he passed through the streets of the New England metropolis.

Members of I. W. W.

Fourteen aliens, admittedly anarchists, and most of them acknowledging membership in the Industrial Workers of the World, are behind the bars in police headquarters following a raid upon the headquarters of an organization into which they were banded, at 1722 Lexington avenue and on the rooms of some of the men at 415 West Fifty-third street.

Two of the men—Elario Orestissa, of 2640 E. or W. Norris street, Philadelphia, and Florian Medina Velta, of the same address—one of them a chemist and the other a machinist, came to this city only on Saturday from Philadelphia. In their rooms the police found parts of a machine which they think was to have been used in making the bomb.

On the person of one of the New York men arrested was found the addresses of two places in Boston that the police think are anarchist strongholds and which the federal authorities are investigating.

Agent in Boston, Theory.

The theory of the plot, as evolved by the authorities, is that the two men from Philadelphia were sent to this city to make the bomb and that someone from New York was to go to Boston Sunday or Monday morning and hurl it, being shielded when in that city by the comrades of disorder there. Efforts are being made by the federal authorities, it was said, to seek for any possible connection between the anarchists now under arrest and the men responsible for the recent bomb outrages in Philadelphia.

The 14 men are members of the Spanish branch of the I. W. W.

BARK SUNK IN COLLISION

New York, Feb. 24.—The French bark Helene was sunk in a collision with the Norwegian freighter Ganfjord off Winter Quarter Light, Virginia, and 16 of her crew perished. Eight survivors, including her skipper, Captain Mainsoneuve, were brought here.

The survivors were brought here on the Ganfjord, with her bows stove in and her forepeak full of water. The Helene, bound from Baltimore to Nantes, was loaded chiefly with steel and went down like a plummet.

DEFENDS BREST CAMP

General Pershing Denies Conditions Are Unsanitary.

Replies to Cablegram of Protest Sent to President Wilson by New York Paper.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The war department made public another report from General Pershing, denying that unsanitary and unhealthy conditions exist in the American embarkation camp at Brest, France.

The commander-in-chief, replying to a cablegram of protest sent by a New York newspaper to President Wilson and forwarded to him by the president, summarized a report which had received from Maj. Gen. Eli A. Helmick, inspector general's department of the expeditionary forces, commanding at Brest.

The cablegram of protest sent to the president charged that soldiers from the front and Red Cross nurses were practically held prisoners while in the Brest camp and, if complaint was made, were put at the bottom of the sailing list; that wounded and ill were forced to stand in the rain for hours for meals; that officers were overheard and harsh, and that conditions generally were unsanitary.

Declaring the charge that soldiers from the front and nurses were confined to quarters was "absolutely groundless," General Helmick reported as follows:

"No individual has been put at the bottom of the sailing list. One organization was held 15 days on account of bad state of discipline and neglect of duty and was released before expiration of time set on account of honest efforts made to correct deficiencies."

TURNS OVER CANTEN WORK

Y. M. C. A. Has Other Duties to Perform in France.

Chaumont, Feb. 24.—The American Y. M. C. A., at its own request, has been relieved of its work in maintaining the post exchanges with the American army.

Correspondence exchanged between General Pershing and E. C. Carter, in charge of Y. M. C. A. with the army, shows that the reason for this arrangement was that the Y. M. C. A. now has "increased responsibilities promoting educational, athletic and entertainment activities in the American Expeditionary Force."

EXISTS IN HIGH PLACES

Senator Jones of Washington Denounces Anarchy.

Attacks Newspapers and Public Men for Alleged Attempts to Nullify Prohibition Laws.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Senator Jones, of Washington, in a speech urging adherence to the old doctrines of Americanism, declares "Bolshevism exists in high places as well as among the masses."

"We denounce Bolshevism and say that the way to meet it is to shoot it, but the best way is to adjust differences and correct injustice with genuine Americanism and a firm adherence to the basic principles of the government of our fathers," he declared.

"We hear much denunciation of Bolshevism today. I do not defend it. I abhor what I conceive its essence to be. We cannot make headway against Bolshevism in the masses, however, until we get rid of it in high places. The best antidote for it is intense respect for law and an ardent love for our institutions and principles of government and a faithful adherence to them by those in authority."

Referring to alleged attempts of newspapers and public men to nullify prohibition laws, the Washington senator declared:

"By their words and their acts they are defilers of law, breeders of revolution, teachers of Bolshevism, un-Americanism and unpatriotism. They do not urge the law's enforcement. They incite and encourage resistance to it."

Plotters Against Wilson Arrested in Philadelphia

(By United Press)

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 24.—Ten alleged leaders of a plot against President Wilson were arrested in one house here early today. All were Cubans, Mexicans or Spaniards.

The president is confident the League of Nations will be endorsed.

The George Washington, on which the president came from Brest arrived in Boston Harbor at five Sunday night, in rough weather. It was snowing and only by the flash of a streak of sunlight did it become known that the liner was headed straight for the shores of Thetecher's Island north of Boston light. An accompanying convoy cut across the path of the George Washington warning her of the danger. She was reversed and a half hour wasted before she could proceed to the harbor.

Just before the president started for his hotel it was learned that twenty-two militant suffragists had been arrested at the capitol where they planned to confront President Wilson and burn his speeches.

The president walked over a velvet carpet beneath a canopy of flags. Three airplanes kept up a circling watch throughout the morning.

CECIL FAVORS LEAGUE

British Peace Envoy Calls War Stupid and Barbarous.

Declares Resort to Arms Is Worst Possible Way of Settling International Disputes.

London, Feb. 24.—Lord Robert Cecil, in an interview with Reuters' Limited before his return to Paris to attend the sessions of the peace conference, admitted that it was absurd to suggest that the mere signing of the League of Nations covenant would produce a millennium, but if given a fair chance, he said, it would certainly produce a better international atmosphere.

"If you can get into the heads of those who direct the affairs of nations that war is the worst possible way of settling international disputes, you will have made a great advance," he continued.

Once you have impressed the world with the fact that war is stupid—stupid and barbarous—you will have gone far to create the feeling of security that will render disarmament possible.

The unanimity of the conference makes it certain that the league will be established as soon as the peace preliminaries are signed. The league will comprise not only the Allies, but all neutral nations."

HOUSE PASSES WHEAT BILL

Carries One Billion Dollars to Guarantee Price.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The wheat guarantee bill, authorizing the President to use existing agencies or create new ones to buy wheat of the 1918 and 1919 crops at the government guaranteed price and dispose of it at market prices, was passed by the house by a vote of 277 to 15.

The bill gives the President broad powers to buy and sell wheat through any agency he may see fit to create, control storage and transportation and restrict imports and exports.

The measure carries an appropriation of $1,000,000,000.

GOVERNMENT EXPENSES HIGH

Financial Needs Next Year May Exceed Revenue.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Estimates of governmental expenditures for next year, gathered by Secretary Glass from the various departments, indicate that the financial needs may run above the $4,000,000,000 to be provided by taxes and that additional tax levies must be made or short term securities sold to tide over the government for a year.

Estimates of expenses for the fiscal year, 1920, beginning July 1 and ending June 30, 1920, range from $6,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000.

LEADERS PLAN TO RUSH LOAN BILL

Measure Provides Sinking Fund to Retire Government Bonds in Twenty-Five Years.

ALLIES TO PAY CLAIMS

Treasury Official Denies That Entente Powers Expect United States to Cancel Debts Resulting from Loans During War.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The ways and means committee has reported to the house Liberty Loan legislation providing for a sinking fund to retire government bonds in 25 years, continuing the war finance corporation so it may aid American export commerce, permitting further loans for sale to foreign governments of equipment sent abroad by the United States for war purposes and carrying provisions designed to stabilize the price of past issues of bonds.

Chairman Kitchin announced that he planned to call the bill before the house late Tuesday, after passage of the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Quick Action Planned.

Quick disposal of the measure is planned by administration leaders, for on its passage largely depends the date of a special session. Failure of the senate to pass the bill before adjournment, March 4, Mr. Kitchin said, probably would mean an extra session by April 1. Should the bill be passed now, he said, he did not believe it would be necessary for congress to meet until about May 15.

The present record of executive hearings by the committee on the legislation contained official denial that the Allies expected the United States to forgive debts resulting from loans advanced during the war.

"Officials of foreign governments have always expressed the intention of their governments to pay the indebtedness, and have said that they had no intention of doing anything else," Albert Rathbone, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of its foreign loan bureau, told the committee when questioned about the loans that approximate $8,500,000,000.

The sinking fund is provided by direct appropriation from the Treasury of 2 1/2 per cent of the aggregate amount of Liberty bonds and notes that will be outstanding on July 1, 1920. The amount, the committee said, was expected to be $18,000,000,000.

GERMAN OFFICIALS PROTEST

Object to American Supplies Being Sent to Poland.

Paris, Feb. 24.—In spite of annoying efforts by Germans to hinder provisioning of Poland, the Supreme Food and Relief council has landed three shiploads of food in Danzig, and sent the food by railway to Warsaw, where it is being distributed under Allied control.

According to Dr. Vernon Kellogg, American member of the Supreme Relief council, who has just returned to Paris from Poland, the Germans did not dare to offer serious opposition to shipments through German territory and over German railways to Poland, but minor officials complained bitterly and said Germany should be fed before Poland.

GOOD ARGUMENT FOR SHORT DAY

Office Manager Tells How His Concern Has Benefited by Change.

APPRECIATED BY EMPLOYEES

Results Have Been Better Work and General Feeling of Contentment and Loyalty, While General Expenses Have Decreased.

"In our line of business," writes the office manager of the western department of a fire insurance company, in System, "the office hours generally accepted are 8 to 5:30, with an hour for luncheon. That makes an eight and one-half hour day. The argument used in favor of these hours is usually: 'The work is all routine; the employees will not work at their top speed all day; routine work permits long hours without affecting output; and so to get the necessary output an eight and one-half hour day is necessary.'"

"We used to work on that theory, too. But a few years ago we decided that the routine worker appreciates shorter hours, and will show his appreciation by getting out his work faster if the situation is put up to him right."

"So we decreased our day to eight hours in the face of the trade tradition. Then we went to seven and one-half hours and later to seven as we saw output increasing with shorter hours. Later we decreased the lunch period to 45 minutes, and closed the office 15 minutes earlier. We get perhaps 23 per cent more work from each employee, as a result, than do other concerns whose work is practically identical with ours."

"We say, in effect, to our employees: 'You come to work at 8:30 and quit at 4:15; in the summer you come at 8 and leave at 3:45. That means that you have better working hours than any other concern would give you. Our rate of pay is the same as in other offices. In fairness we demand from you the best there is in you, every minute of your seven hours that we are buying.'"

"We do not permit smoking during office hours—not because we object to tobacco, but because it is a distraction. No 'visiting' is permitted; the clerk who insists on talking during office hours must go, if he refuses to change his ways. The girls do not go to the washroom to powder their noses and comb their hair during the morning—it's contrary to the spirit of the office. Even the office boys may be depended upon to waste little time when they run errands outside the office."

"Office expense cost us less for each $1,000 of insurance in force than it costs any other concern I know. We can fill a vacancy without an effort; our employees are practically fixtures in the office, even under present-day labor conditions. Our seven-hour day is the reason; can anyone deny that it pays us?"

Keep Children in School.

Girls and boys of school age can best serve their country and themselves at this time by attending school. As the children's bureau points out, the final victory in the recent war may come 20 years hence, and it will come to the nation with the strongest and best trained men and women. Keeping children in school is not an economic loss. Education not only makes for finer civilization, and a fuller individual life, but it makes for higher wages and greater productivity. —Indianapolis News.

LEAVE IT TO "PAL"

Dog's Owner Relies on Animal's Intelligence.

Offspring of Gray Wolf and Highly Bred Scottish Guardian of Sheep, Four-Footed Companion is Beyond Value.

While in Alabama I made the acquaintance with the strangest dog I have ever heard of—the most unique creature it has been my province to get acquainted with, writes George F. Borba in the Columbus Dispatch. He belongs to a man living at Tysonville, but is known all over the state and his name is "Pal."

Pal's mother was a shepherd and lived on the plains out West, where she looked after a big herd of sheep. In fact, she was one of the best sheep dogs in the whole region. His father was a gray wolf. So Pal is half wolf and half dog—a common enough thing out West.

Pal grew up with the sheep his mother looked after, and learned all the tricks of rounding them up and bringing them in. But he learned a whole lot more than the average sheep dog knows. He learned that every other animal as well as sheep can be directed and guided and taken care of if you know how to do it. So when Pal's owner wants any certain animal on the farm brought in, he simply tells the dog what he wants and Pal attends to it. He can tell the dog to go to the pasture a mile away and bring in a certain mule and he goes and brings it in. He can direct him to bring in a certain cow or calf or hog and it is done.

But the strange thing about it is that Pal also brings in other dogs. His owner has numerous bird dogs, which he trains upon the plantation, Pal helps train them. If a dog gets too far away, the trainer says, "Pal, bring him in," and Pal does so. He runs to the dog and crowds him toward the owner. He simply will not let him go in any other direction. He doesn't fight the other dog, although at times it may be necessary for him to take hold of an ear and nip it a little. But he annoys the dog until there is nothing else for it to do but to be guided by Pal.

Then Pal is the high sheriff or policeman of the whole plantation. He keeps the peace between the other animals. If two dogs get into a fight, Pal separates them. If he finds a couple of hogs or chickens fighting, he does the same thing. He doesn't bother anything upon the plantation unless it is doing something it ought not to do, and then he takes a hand in the matter and settles it. If he finds a pig in a field where it doesn't belong, he drives it out without being directed to do so. If a horse slips his bridle while hitched to the hitching post and cavitorts down the road, it is only for a few moments, for Pal is close upon its heels or at its nose and he brings it back and keeps it standing where it was left.

Taking the Next Census.

The government takes stock of its resources this year. July 1, 1919, begins the next decennial census of the population and industries of the United States. It comes fittingly at an important epoch in the nation's destiny and at a time when we are launching upon a new era of expansion and foreign interest, Thomas R. Logan says in Leslie's. Our statesmen and students will be deeply concerned in the data accumulated as to the value of our industries as well as to their extent. It will be a greatly energized and strengthened America which the new census taker will find. He will observe and record the effects of the war upon our industrial life. He will report also the exact number of our citizens by races and ages. It will be possible to determine how far General Crozier's draft registration fell short of the actual number of population of draft age. The last census showed 38,781,324 population. Guesses as to the present population range from 105,000,000 to as high as 112,000,000. Inroads of the war, of influenza, without compensating immigration, have abated our rate of increase. Despite this, the totals may surprise us.

"Times" as Smallest Seller.

"Having blown the horn of our American friends as to their circulations," said Lord Northcliffe at a luncheon to American editors, "I may be permitted to say that each afternoon we print here a special daily newspaper with perhaps the smallest circulation in the world. I will ask you to come and see it produced. It is the permanent record edition of the Times, which we make for libraries all over the world. We produce it on paper that we believe to be indestructible, with indelible ink." —Publisher's Weekly.

Reno.

"And what is this place?" "This is Reno. The limited stops here twenty minutes."

"Oh, I've heard of Reno."

"Of course you have."

"Is twenty minutes long enough to get a divorce?" —Birmingham Age-Herald.

Country's Corn Production.

When the Indians taught the white settlers of this country how to raise corn, no flight of the imagination could have foreseen the crop of 1918, covering nearly 178,000 square miles, or nearly as much land as there is in Germany.

Move for Shorter Workday.

Declaring that an eight-hour day is becoming an established economic fact, Senator Graves of Buffalo introduced in the New York senate an eight-hour day bill for women. There is at present a nine-hour limit for women workers in factories and mercantile establishments, and the new measure, which is backed by the women's joint legislative conference, would reduce the working hours a week to 48. In other respects its provisions are practically the same as the present 54-hour a week law.

Women to Give Up Heavy Work.

Although the war demand for labor resulted in the employment of some 2,000 women in places of men in various industries, according to the estimate of the Montana state industrial accident board, it is not expected that more than half of them will retain such places. Women employed especially in the heavier railroad work, such as baggage handlers, engine wipers and car cleaners, are expected to be replaced shortly by men.

Industrial Restrictions Lifted.

Formal announcement was made of the cancellation of all restrictions and orders of the war industries board effective January 1, and the withdrawal of all pledges made by industries at the instance of the board.

Labrette Refuses Post.

Stephen Walsh, laborite, has refused to accept appointment as parliamentary secretary of the president of the London board of trade. His retirement leaves only four labor representatives in the government.

Wisdom of the Ancients.

It is my custom every night to run all over the words and actions of the past day; for why should I fear the sight of my errors when I can admonish and forgive myself? I was a little too hot in such a dispute; my opinion might as well have been spared, for it gave offense and did no good at all. The thing was true; but all truths are not to be spoken at all times. —Seneca.

You Know, But Sometimes Forget.

Everybody knows an imitation is never so good as the genuine article. Foley's Honey and Tar stands at the top of the list of family remedies for colds, croup, whooping cough, bronchial and gripple coughs. W. L. Anglin, Antioch, La., writes: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar 15 years. It is the best." H. P. Dunn, druggist.

WOMAN'S REALM

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PLAY TO BE GIVEN

Cast Announced for "Elopement of Ellen," Replete with Irish Songs and Dances

IS A HAPPY FARCE COMEDY

Given under Direction of Miss Marie Clark, under Auspices of St. Francis Parish

"The Elopement of Ellen" is the title of the St. Patrick's Day play to be given at the Park theatre under the auspices of St. Francis parish. It will be a farce comedy replete with Irish songs and dances and will be presented Monday evening, March 17. The cast includes H. P. Dunn as Richard Ford, a devoted young husband.

Mrs. Clyde E. Burnett as Molly, his wife. Harold E. Webb as Robert Shepard, Molly's father.

Harry Fullerton as Max Ten Eyck. Miss Marie Clark as Dorothy March engaged to Max, and a guest of Mrs. Ford.

Miss Norma Brady as June Haverhill, Wellesley '19, who is doing some special investigation for economics courses during the summer.

Walter Cleary as John Hume, rector of St. Agnes.

People have eagerly awaited the announcement of the cast for this play. Miss Marie Clark under whose direction it will be given, has striven not only to secure a cast that would well interpret the various roles, but one that would also be of extreme interest to the public.

Postmaster Dunn will be remembered as being a popular star in local talent work some ten or more years ago. His return to theatricals will undoubtedly create a big sensation.

Mrs. Clyde E. Burnett is a real artist in dramatic work, one could hardly call her an amateur. The role of Molly, the newlywed, is played ed in an astoundingly realistic manner.

Harold Webb, last appearing as the much disgusted husband in "The Panorama of Palm Beach," is even more promising in his new role.

Attorney Fullerton is well versed in play work, having made his first appearance in "Princess Bonnie," playing lead opposite the former Miss Elizabeth Armstrong.

Last year Walter Cleary proved himself to be a real comedian in a class play. His portrayal of the principal comedy role will be clever.

The eloping "Ellen" is Miss Norma Brady known to all Brainerd folks for her charming acting. No home theatricals could do without Miss Brady.

The specialties will be announced later.

At the Best Tomorrow

When "The Better Half" comes to the Best theatre tomorrow, Alice Brady will be seen in the latest and best of her Select Pictures in the double role of twin sisters. The story was adapted for the screen by Louis Sherwin from Miriam Michelson's novel, "Michael Thwaite's Wife." It was directed by J. S. Robertson.

The ease and skill with which Miss Brady portrays the double role of twin sisters make this picture one of the best she has ever done. The sympathetic role of Louise is one which is especially adapted to the versatile Miss Brady, and the entire picture leaves nothing to be desired. It is a remarkable accomplishment by a very accomplished actress.

Barrett Has American Plan.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—Suggestion that international questions affecting nations of the Western hemisphere should be left to the Pan-American union for settlement, instead of the proposed league of nations, was made by John Barrett, director general of the union, speaking here at a luncheon given by civic organizations. He said the union was a working, limited, official league of the American nations that has stood steadfastly for the solidarity of the American republic.

Rare Tropical Woods.

The woodlands of temperate climates yield of course the bulk of the world's lumber, but comparatively few treasures; but those of the tropics are filled with rare cabinet woods, spice woods, dye woods, and many with medicinal virtues. Their name is legion. Some are of vital importance, too, in the industries, such as the rubber and gutta percha trees. The forest resources of the Philippines are only slightly explored, but they are known to contain vast stores of wood products representing incalculable wealth. They were practically untouched during the Spanish regime, and fortunately for the future of the islands they have been wisely administered since the American occupation.

Happy Japanese Children.

"Of all the happy beings on the face of the earth," Miss du Pont exclaimed, "the happiest are the children of Japan. I can think of no happier fate than to be born one of these little ones. The love of children in Japan is beyond anything that we can conceive of. All grown people are their willing slaves. This does not mean, however, that Japanese children are either spoiled or despotic, as many petted American children are. Brought up in households where consistent courtesy is the rule, not the sporadic effort for company, the children really absorb very charming manners."

BOLSHEVIKI FREE LOVE

Official decrees on the nationalization of women regarding application of the free love doctrine under the bolshevik regime in Russia were read by Roger E. Simmons, former representative at Petrograd of the United States department of commerce, to the senate committee investigating bolshevik propaganda in the United States.

The first decree was dated March 25 1918 and was issued by the anarchist soviet which was charged by Lenin and Trotsky with the government of the city of Saratov.

The whole institution of marriage was done away with and women between the ages of 17 and 32 became the property of all men. The distribution and management of the appropriated women was transferred to the Anarchist Saratov club. Children resulting were to be taken care of by an institution.

This matter of having wives in common seems to have been accepted following the decrees issued. Similar regulations were adopted by the soviet of the cities of Vladimir, Luga, Kolpin, etc.

God, religion, morality common decency seem to have been invaded by the Bolsheviki in their wild desire to revolutionize their country.

No wonder every decent community in America from Seattle to New York is sweeping out the Bolsheviki and their doctrines.

STRANGE VISITORS TO INDIANS

Savages Not Unnaturally Alarmed When Airmen "Dropped In" to Their Village.

Army aviators stationed at France field, near Cristobal, in the Panama canal zone, are required to do much of their flying over water and along the coast. Recently two pilots made a flight to the Gulf of St. Blas, which is situated on the Atlantic coast about one hundred miles west of France field. The mainland and small islands in the gulf are inhabited by Indians, who are very unfriendly.

Due to the overheating of a motor one of the pilots was compelled to descend, and landed on one of the most populous of the islands. His companion in the second airplane followed him. Consternation reigned among the natives when the two airplanes "taxied" up to the dugout village and came to a halt. What followed is described in the bulletin of the air service which contains an official report of the trip:

"It is doubtful who was the most fearful on this occasion, for when the begoggled pilots alighted from their machines the entire population of the island was lined up, armed to the teeth. The chief of the village very reluctantly took his place at the head of this aggregation and with a machete in his hand greeted the visitors with a scowl.

"One of the pilots was a new arrival in Panama and unfamiliar with stories about the unfriendliness of the Indians. As soon as he stepped on the beach he rushed up and greeted the chief in a very effusive manner, and fortunately his friendly smile was properly interpreted. After this the pilots were permitted to go through the village, and by way of courtesy the chief was asked by means of signs to take a ride in one of the airplanes, which invitation was not accepted."

The pilots tried to take pictures of the Indians, but the appearance of the camera aroused such hostility that they finally gave up the attempt. Before leaving the village the chief and a few of the young men were induced to smoke cigarettes which the aviators produced.

The purchases were divided as follows: Fourth Liberty Bonds, $35,000,000; Third Liberty Bonds, $115,935,500; Second Liberty converted 4 1/4's, $132,295,000; Second Liberty 4's, $63,050,000; and First Liberty converted 4's, $65,000,000.

German Cities are Yankeeized

(By United Press)

Coblenz, Feb. 4 (By Mail).—The Americanization of the villages and towns in the occupied area is in full sway, aided by the powerful influence of the doughboy's plentiful supply of marks and pennings. Every store and shop shows evidence of the American occupation, and the desire of the proprietor thereof to acquire the mark and pennig by catering to His Majesty, the American doughboy.

Within a few days after entrance of American troops the more progressive stores blossomed out with signs in English and cards announcing that "American is spoken here." The postcard photographers began to reap a harvest snapshotting American soldiers. Their windows are filled with sample photographs of Americans ranged alongside of the old stock of frowning German soldiers and grinning German soldiers posed with their rifles held stiffly at attention. One business college has started a course in English, plastering the town of Coblenz with advertising offering to teach English in three weeks. Before the regulation prohibiting sale of liquor cafe-owners discovered the peculiarities of the American palate and were advertising Manhattan and Bronx cocktails and a concoction labeled "Pershing cocktail" on the same menus with "Hindenburg Punch."

The astute German business man soon discovered the overpowering desire of the Americans for souvenirs, and several new souvenir shops were opened, and advertising "Souvenirs of the War" and selling cheap jewelry with the Iron Cross design and the German imperial coat of arms. The postcard shops, which have been in hard luck since the flocks of tourists ceased junketing up and down the Rhine, began to do a landoffice business.

The German military tailors in Coblenz who were in the depth of black despair when the German army withdrew, perked up when they found they could sell their stocks of gaudy helmets and military insignia to Americans for twice the market price. Some of them advertise to make American uniforms if the cloth is furnished.

Many of the restaurants are printing their menus partly in English and specializing in American dishes, and several even advertise "American ice cream," which, although expensive, is passably good.

When the order came that troops attached to the Third army must wear an insignia consisting of little concentric circles in red white and blue around the letter "A", the German tailors got busy and within a day or two were displaying samples of the army insignia.

At least one dealer in notions had an unexpected windfall. At the outbreak of the war he had on hand a large stock of the flags of all nations, including several hundred American flags, which he had been selling to restaurant keepers to decorate tourist tables. Upon his return home after demobilization this canny shopkeeper soon found that he could sell the American flags to truckdrivers to decorate their motor trucks. His stock was soon exhausted.

German shopkeepers are amazed at the strange wants of the American souvenir hunters. For instance they cannot understand why husky doughboys want women's paper corsets, substitutes for shoes manufactured with wooden soles and cloth or paper uppers, paper tablecloths, paper bed sheets, and the hundred and one substitutes which the shops have on sale. One doughboy upset the routine of one of the big stores by trying to buy a suit of women's paper underwear. With a half dozen words of German and a wealth of appropriate gestures he vainly tried to put over the idea. The whole staff of the store was gathered to watch his antics when a German-speaking soldier entered and came to his aid. The amazement of the crowd was undisguised, but he got the underwear.

Another soldier left a trail of wonderment when he entered a millinery store and came away with one of the women's hats that had been displayed in the window. He explained he wanted to send it to his sister.

Despite their mystification at the needs of the American doughboy, the shopkeepers are rapidly adapting themselves to the new order of things and proving that the trade follows the mark and the pennig, regardless of color of the flag under which it comes.

Don't Fool Yourself

A man suffering from backache, rheumatic pains, stiff joints or sore muscles may laugh and say these symptoms of kidney trouble "don't amount to anything." It is folly to ignore Nature's warnings. Foley's Kidney Pills give quick relief in kidney or bladder troubles and it is better to be safe than sorry. H. P. Dunn, druggist.

Not a Circus Stunt, Just Part of the Day's Work While U. S. Navy Was Chasing U-Boats

This is not a circus stunt. It was just part of the day's work with the American navy when it was helping to end the U-boat menace. The picture shows the observer of a huge naval balloon being relieved after his tour of duty aloft. He is descending to the deck of a far ship at sea by means of the rigging and a pulley. Early in the war it was the custom to pull the balloon down to the deck of the mother ship but this took too much time.

COMING BACK TWICE, IT'S KID GLEASON

BY H. C. HAMILTON.
 (Staff Correspondent, United Press)

CHAPTER IX

When the world's championship had been safely locked away in the Comiskey strong box and the winter dope began to percolate about it was quietly rumored that Kid Gleason soon would succeed Clarence Rowland as the real leader of the Sox, so on slipped out of the way and went into retirement for a time. He never, so far as has been learned, made the slightest effort to gain for himself the position he now holds.

When the 1918 campaign opened, there was no Gleason on the field to help direct play, no Gleason at the parks during the mornings to instruct and fight. He had dropped out of the way of the youthful leader who deserved more of the credit for sending the White Sox to their victory the previous fall. Gleason gave his assistance, but not in the way he had before, and the gradual slipping and falling of the Sox began to result.

It was a truly great aggregation which whipped the Giants in the fall of 1917 and won the world's championship, and when a few of the cogs began to slip they wrecked the chances of Chicago to witness another championship contest with the White Sox involved. It wasn't only a lack of Gleason aid that hurt the team and it wasn't the fault of Clarence Rowland that the players were not able to gather in another championship, but it all helped and it all hurt.

It may be that this is the reason for Comiskey's suddenly cutting the strings that bound him to Clarence Rowland and deciding to give a chance to the more experienced and older player—Kid Gleason.

But Gleason already has stuck out his chin and laid down the law to his boss—something Rowland never did.

Gleason has informed Comiskey that Gleason is going to manage the club and that, so long as he manages it, he will say who does and who does not wield a bat for the South Side of Chicago. So, he has made arrangements to welcome back to the fold Joe Jackson, Happy Felsch and Claude Williams, players whom Comiskey barred when they jumped him last year to engage in "necessary occupations." Gleason declares these players shall have a chance and if they still have the goods they will continue on the White Sox payroll, regardless of Comiskey's feelings.

Dixie Doughboys are Going Back to Farm

(By United Press)

Columbia, Tenn., Feb. 24.—Back to the farm is no imaginary movement among the soldiers in the A. E. F., if letters received from many Tennessee boys now overseas are to be taken as accurate indications.

Scores of these soldiers have written to relatives and friends asking that provisions be made for them to farm this year. One officer who was not a farmer before going to war has asked his father to have a farm ready for him when he returns.

Others who shunned farm work before going to France seem to have caught the fever and are asking for land to rent or buy. Practically every man from this section who farmed prior to entering the service has gone back to tilling the soil upon being discharged.

It is thought that the intensive methods of the Europeans will be adopted by the soldiers when they return, thereby increasing the production of Tennessee farms.

Autos Were About to Become Very Scarce

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 24.—Only three days' supply of new automobiles were left in the hands of manufacturers on Nov. 11, when the armistice was signed, according to the report of C. C. Hanch, chief of the automobile products section of the war industries board.

The curtailment of manufacturing during the war built up the biggest demand the country has known for several years, the report indicates, and a period of great activity among the passenger car producers is indicated.

Some months will be required for manufacturers to reconvert their plants back to the normal basis, and the production of cars for 1919 probably will not reach the figures of 1917, when the production passed the one million mark.

Normal production on a large scale in the bigger plants probably will not be reached before next summer.

The Doctor's Advice

The first question the doctor asks is: are the bowels open and regular. If not he advises the use of a thorough cathartic for he recognizes the danger of clogged bowels.

As a precaution against sickness there is nothing better than to keep the bowels free from food-waste because of the dangerous poisons which are absorbed into the blood from that source.

Your druggist has a product called SALINOS which will completely empty the bowels, including the lower bowel where most poisons are formed. It is pleasant in taste and creates no habit. It is fully effective in cold water. It does not gripe.

Get a bottle. Take it in cold water first thing tomorrow morning.

TOWN IN AN UPROAR ON SATURDAY NIGHT

New Indian Agent Johnson Makes an Arrest on Midnight Train, Commotion at Depot

SHOTS FIRED ON THE STREET

Prisoner Gets Badly Cut up on Head. Five Cuts—Treated by a Doctor

The town was in an uproar on Saturday night when a new Indian agent, William Johnson who had made an arrest on the St. Paul train tried to land his man in jail and the crowd took offense at the beating the man claimed he had received.

Johnson is said to have boarded the train at Little Falls and later arrested a man and slipped handcuffs on him. When the train arrived at Brainerd Johnson sought to take his prisoner to jail and called for help from the local police.

During the press of the crowd the prisoner in charge of Johnson, claimed to have been struck repeatedly by him and his face was soon covered with blood. The crowd demanded his release, that he be taken to a doctor. Johnson stuck to his prisoner and some shots were fired by him on Sixth street. At length Johnson released the man to Officer Albert Scott and the latter took him to Dr. C. S. Reimstad.

The latter said he found him pretty badly bruised up. He had several cuts on top of the head, two over his forehead, one on the nose, two under his chin. The injured man told the doctor he thought he had been struck with a whip.

Officer Scott is reported to have accompanied the Indian agent to Pequot on the latter's return to Bemidji.

Indian Agent Johnson went to Bemidji and made two arrests on the train on the way to the north country. He is a man of about 25, weight 160 pounds, recently served in the army six months and has seen four and a half years in government service in the Indian department at Hibbing, Chisholm, Bemidji and other points. Associates claim he is cool, not excitable and not quick tempered. He returned to Brainerd from Bemidji Monday noon and declined to make any statement. His left hand was injured in Bemidji ten days ago.

COURT HOUSE BILL TO BE CONSIDERED

Special Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Called Upon Request of Senator H. A. Swanson

SOME RECOMMENDATIONS MADE

Regular Club Dinner to Have Been Held Feb. 26th Has Been Postponed Into March

An important meeting and one in which every member of the Chamber of Commerce should be vitally interested is to be held this evening at 8 o'clock. It is called at the request of Senator Hilding A. Swanson, who is interesting himself in the court house bill which has passed the house and is now up to the senate. Senator Swanson has some recommendations to make which he thinks will add to the value of the property it is proposed to erect the court house upon, and he advised Attorney S. F. Alderman that he would be in Brainerd this evening and requested that a meeting be arranged for. Members are urged to come out and attend this meeting.

The regular club dinner, which was to have been held on Wednesday, February 26th, has been postponed over into March, on account of this special meeting of the chamber tonight, and coming so near as it does to the recent Ladies' Night.

FIRE LOSS IN COUNTY DECREASED

Gratifying Report Received From State Fire Marshal's Department in St. Paul

LOSS IN 1918 WAS $36,875

Sixteen Fires—Citizens of Crow Wing County to be Congratulated Reducing Fire Risks

Crow Wing County's fire loss during the last year was $36,875 from 16 fires.

This is gratifying as compared with the loss and number of fires in Crow Wing County last year, says Geo. H. Nettleton, Asst. Chief State Fire Marshal.

The citizens of Crow Wing County are to be congratulated on this splendid showing. In many counties in Minnesota there has been some decrease but there still is room for more reductions in this matter. However, if other sections of the state do as well as Crow Wing County, both the state and federal governments will feel satisfied that everything is being done to help prevent the useless fire waste.

OLD PAPERS—5c BUNDLE

W. H. SCHILLING ON SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK

New Superintendent of the State Sunday School Association Speaks at Bethlehem Church

DR. JOS. NICHOLSON PRESIDED

Community Training Class and Vacation Bible School are Suggested by the Speaker

A crowded house greeted the first appearance of W. H. Schilling, the new superintendent of the State Sunday School Association, last evening at the Bethlehem Lutheran church. A number of the churches had given up their evening services and the various ministers were on the platform and had some part in the meeting. Dr. Jos. Nicholson presided in the absence of Sergeant George Berggreen who is still in service.

The preliminary song service was under the direction of Rev. M. L. Hostager and the double quartet of the church. Mrs. George Berggreen in arsolo was greatly appreciated.

Dr. Nicholson introduced Mr. Schilling as the successor of A. M. Locker, who has been state president for a number of years and as such is well known to the Minnesota Sunday School world. The present superintendent has been in educational work in Duluth for the past nine years being the assistant superintendent of public schools there. He is a man of fine presence cultured, and with a splendid enthusiasm for the Christian as well as the secular education of the boys and girls.

He feels that with all the excellence of training in the public school that the one element of highest importance is left out when the religious education of the child is overlooked that all the secular refinements are dulled and blunted because of the lack of the spiritual ideal. It is for this reason he has given himself to the religious educational mission.

Among the suggestions made by the speaker was the community training class and the vacation Bible school. The former is a class made up of all the denominations with instructors and officers chosen from the various churches for religious education. In this class the Teacher's Training text books could be used and those graduating from this department could serve as teachers in the Vacation Bible school. These suggestions were well received and may give rise to an interdenominational effort along these lines in the near future.

Around the three great appealing ideas—God; accountability; immortality the speaker grouped his address. "Plato," said he, "made as the basis of his philosophy the knowledge of self. 'Know thyself' was his central teaching." "Marcus Aurelius based his philosophical teaching on self control. 'Control thyself' was his motto." "Jesus Christ, the greatest of earth's teachers, emphasized the sacrificial in his teaching. 'Give thyself.' He brought to man the ideal of service. 'The greatest among you shall be servant of all.' 'I am among you as one that serveth.' It is this advance in teaching upon all others that has made the learned of the world speak of Jesus as the master teacher.

The officers chosen for the district association for the ensuing year are as follows: president, George Berggreen; vice-president, John Zander; secretary, Esther Fogelstrom; treasurer, Ben Anderson; superintendent children's division, Mrs. E. F. Whitlock; young people's division, Alfred Dillan; adult division, Sam Woodin; administrative, H. F. Michael; educational Professor Scherick.

Next summer the sixty-first convention of the State Association will be celebrated. Minnesota was one of the first states organized and is among the banner states in Sunday school work.

PICTORIAL HISTORY OF WAR COMPILED

Mayor R. A. Beise Appoints Frank S. Workman to Aid the Government in its Work

PICTURES WANTED OF CITY

Showing War Activities, Red Cross, Liberty Loan, Soldiers Leave-taking, Etc.

The War Department of the government has addressed the following letter to Mayor R. A. Beise and the latter has appointed Frank S. Workman to gather the pictorial record of war activities as desired:

WAR DEPARTMENT
Office of the Chief of Staff
Washington Feb. 17, 1919.
The Mayor, Brainerd, Minn.

Dear Sir:
In the compilation of the pictorial record of the war under the General Staff of the Army, it is desired that photographs representing all the important phases of war activity from every section of the country should be included. Certainly every city and its adjacent communities should be adequately represented with pictures showing the valuable work which it has done during the time of war.

To date, little or nothing has been received from Brainerd, however. This letter is an invitation to you to appoint some energetic individual or organization to collect and forward to this office the photographs desired in order that Brainerd and its vicinity may take its proper place in the historical records of this office. There is no limitation as to subject. Every activity, from extensive civic campaigns or celebrations to the simplest home work, will be welcome.

The State Council of Defense of Minnesota is making an effort to the same end throughout the state, and will, I am sure, appreciate this work now suggested in Brainerd as coordinate with its own.

MURLOWSKI COMING HOME

Private Frank Murlowski Arrived Safe and Sound in New York. Letter Written in January

Mr. and Mrs. Valentine T. Murlowski of 707 South Fourth street, were informed Friday that their son, Frank L. Murlowski had arrived safe and sound in New York City and was ordered to demobilize at camp and would soon be in Brainerd.

A letter from him dated Boutin, France, January 10, gave his last impressions of the old country. He wrote:

"Am all O. K. and hope you and pa are the same. From all reports the flu is worse than ever in the states again. We are lucky enough not to have a single case here or in the vicinity. I moved here day before yesterday. There are thirty of us boys in this place.

The only inconvenience we have is we have to walk about a mile to meals and drill. This place is the most home like we've had yet. We've got seven fellows in this room and had a dandy fire-place. The other two billets of A Co. are called by us the Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. We call our place the Salvation Army billet.

It's raining to beat the band out-side. I've been in rain so much I'm getting web footed like a duck. How's Aunt May and Charlie getting along? Give them both my best regards. Is pa working every day? Tell him to tell Butke hello for me. Well, it's quarter past eleven, so I guess I'll have to go up to mess, pretty soon.

Last Sunday I had chicken dinner and supper at a frog's house. I learned to parlez vous pretty good, at least enough to get by. I don't expect to leave here for a month or two yet, because the sea is so rough, traffic in the states blocked, beaucoup flu, and in fact I think we're lucky to be as well as we are. Out of the 600 men we got here, we've only got one sick man in the hospital. Believe me, that old mountain climbing in California sure made this a healthy outfit. I have not been sick once in the ten months of soldiering I've had. Haven't had a toothpick either. What do you think of that?

My teeth were fixed up pretty good at Rosecrans. We put in a tube of hypochlorite in all our drinking water over here. This evening am sitting in front of the fireplace with my feet drying out. Seven of the boys are playing cards on my bunk. This place is sure the best place I've been in yet. We may have to move out of here because the frogs want this place. Believe me, they sure have forgotten what the Yanks did for them already. I'll be glad when I get back to God's country once more. Guess I'll go to church tomorrow morning. I went to church last Sunday. They have funny ways over here. One of them is two collections during each mass. Just got bawled out for not keeping the fire going, so I just filled it up. I saw the first American paper today I've seen for a month. Well, guess I'll have to fix the fire and go to bed. Good night. Well, will say good bye. Good luck to you and pa and expect to be home before long. I am your son, Frank."

BUGLER ALVIN E. FREDSTROM

Writes His Brother, Raymond Fredstrom, From LaChappelle, St. Remy, France

From LaChappelle, St. Remy, France, Bugler Alvin E. Fredstrom, under date of January 19 writes his brother, Raymond Fredstrom:

"Guess it's about time I was answering some of your letters that I have been getting lately. Got two letters written at Camp Dodge and one after you got home on Dec. 25. I'm sure glad to hear that you got home O. K., only wish I were there myself. Would be there now if we would have left when we were told. However, we hope to leave any day now.

I can just imagine the times you are having now. Just wait till I get there too. You are all asking if I saw any battles or was in any. I did get to see No Man's Land, but I was a few hours late to see any action.

I was on a truck with others, fourteen from Co. B, and on our way to the front, when the news came that the armistice had been signed. I was transferred on Nov. 9 but did not get equipped in time, so we didn't start until November 11. Mighty close call for me, I'd call it. Our Colonel of the old outfit tried to get us back after he heard that the thing was over, so they tell us. We were stationed after I got into the division for a long time on the old Somme front in a little town called Ghay. Have now been in LaChappelle since Dec. 1.

Had a lot of helmets and other things, but sold them as I could not pack them around with me. Had a belt full of different ornaments and sold it for ten francs."

SERGT. JOHN L. RACY

Home on Furlough from Sixteen Months Overseas Service—Gassed and Wounded

Sergeant John L. Racy of the 6th Regiment Marines has just returned from 16 months service overseas and is on furlough visiting his father, J. Racy, his sister Mrs. A. F. Gorton, and his brother E. C. Racy.

Sergeant Racy was in the battles of Chateau Thierry, better known to him as Belleau Wood and Soissons. He was gassed and also wounded in the right arm. He spent two months on the Verdun front under shell fire day and night.

This is Sergeant Racy's first visit to Brainerd within twelve years. He has been in the army sixteen years and prior to the present war he saw service in the Philippines, South America, Cuba, and has been stationed at various places in the United States.

NOTHING IS DONE ABOUT RAILROADS

DESPITE WARNINGS THAT SOME LEGISLATION IS NEEDED, CONGRESS IS INACTIVE.

TOO BIG FOR THIS SESSION

Southerners Now Walling About the Embargo on Cotton Shipments—Hiram Johnson's Vigorous Criticism of Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington.—Although congress was warned by everybody having anything to do with the subject that some sort of railroad legislation was necessary, nothing has been done and nothing will be done. Right from the beginning, starting with the president's message and followed by a statement from Director General McAdoo and one from his successor, Director General Hines, there came statements from such men as Senator Cummins saying that some sort of legislation was imperative in order that a chaotic condition be avoided. In spite of these solemn warnings congress has paid no actual attention to the railroad situation beyond having hearings by different committees, but has devoted its time to other matters which were more interesting if not more important. Probably the chaotic condition that has been predicted will not follow lack of legislation, for it is not likely that the railroads will be turned back to their owners soon, at least not until there has been some opportunity to legislate in the next congress. As a matter of fact it was known at the very beginning of this session of congress that the subject was altogether too large to be investigated, a bill framed, discussed and passed by both houses, in the short time between the assembling of the last session of this congress on the first of December and its termination on March 4.

Cotton was the real live topic at the beginning of the great war and it has developed into a very live topic at the close of the war. Southerners do not hesitate about expressing their opinion where cotton is concerned and whenever there is trouble in the cotton market the grievances are almost sure to be aired in congress. In the years before the war representatives from the cotton states usually complained bitterly about stock jobbing and asserted that the various exchanges were to blame for the depression of the cotton market. At the beginning of the war the complaint was made against Great Britain because she was shutting cotton out of Germany and other countries. Then as the demand for cotton for munitions boosted the price there was a lull in the complaints. Just now there is a loud wail about the embargo which the United States authorities have placed on cotton, which a great many of the southern men say is unnecessary since the war is over.

In the house of representatives it has generally been the fact that a real good kicker, if he has the brains and ability, can kick himself to the top. Quite a number of men who were "on the outside" for many years finally made their way to the top by viciously fighting the little inner ring. It may be that Senator Hiram Johnson of California will succeed in kicking himself onto the committee on foreign relations. He takes occasion frequently to arraign severely that committee and criticizes it for failing to take action on various resolutions that have been introduced. In a recent speech he used the remark, "the all-seeing eye of the senate, the committee on foreign relations." As he went along with his criticisms he finally brought Chairman Hitchcock to the front with a vigorous protest against his assertion that this committee "bottled up" measures which were sent to it. It is a tradition with the foreign relations committee, however, that it is a law unto itself.

The last election went against the Democrats, said Senator Kenyon of Iowa in the senate recently, "because of the feeling in the country about the wasteful and indefensible extravagance of congress. The people," he continued, "are going to understand pretty soon the motto of each political party—'Let the people pay.'"

Kenyon went on to say that when the Republicans came into power, if they played Santa Claus with the people's money he hoped they would in turn be driven out. "Pretty soon," he declared, "we will find that there will be a taxpayers' party in this country as well as two taxpayers' parties." Congress in general seems to be getting tired of its orgy of spending.

Congressman Shallenberger of Nebraska enlivened debate on the army appropriation bill by a spirited defense of General Pershing. The American commander had just been commented on rather unfavorably by one of the speakers and Shallenberger took up the gauntlet for him. The Nebraska congressman called attention to the fact that the French, British and German armies had a succession of leaders before men like Foch and Halig took charge, while Shallenberger claimed that the United States found it necessary to appoint only one man, and kept him there.

Increasing Population.
It is calculated that the earth's population is doubled in 139 years.

Bill Fixes Price of Potash.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Amended to fix a maximum price for domestic potash, the bill introduced by Senator Henderson of Nevada, designed to safeguard American producers by regulating imports through a licensing system for two years after peace has been restored, was ordered favorably reported by the Senate miner committee. The maximum price for potash for the first twelve months would be fixed at $2.50 a unit and for the twelve succeeding months $2.

Fidelity in Small Things.

Fidelity in small things is at the base of every great achievement. We too often forget this, and yet no truth needs more to be kept in mind, particularly in the troubled times of history and in the crises of individual life.—Charles Wagner.

SERIOUS RIOTS OCCUR AT MUNICH

Councilor Jahries Reported Slain and Several Army Officers Wounded.

RADICALS IN CONTROL

Anarchistic Element Threatens With Death Entire Classes of People as Reprisal for Assassination of Kurt Eisner.

Munich, Feb. 24.—During the rioting here Ministerial Councilor Jahries has been slain and several officers of the war office gravely wounded. The radical elements have threatened with death entire classes of the population as a reprisal for the assassination of Kurt Eisner.

A semi-official dispatch from Munich quoting a foreign ministry note, says the only persons killed in Munich were Kurt Eisner, the premier and Deputy Oeser. The dispatch says that Minister of War Rossbach was taken to a place of safety and the other reports of killings were unfounded.

Archbishop Faulhaber Arrested. Berlin, Feb. 24.—Archbishop Faulhaber, of the diocese of Wurzburg, who has been especially obnoxious to radicals, has been arrested by Munich rioters, according to the Zeitung am Mittag. All Munich newspapers have suspended publication temporarily.

Herr Auer, minister of the interior, and Count Arco Valley, who shot and killed Premier Eisner, were said to be alive, but both in a critical condition. Archbishop Faulhaber headed the Catholic bishops who last December protested formally against separation of the church and state and abolition of religious oversight of the schools.

Previous reports concerning the fate of Count Arco Valley have varied. One stated he was lynched by an angry mob, while another said he was shot and wounded by a naval guard who accompanied the premier at the time of the assassination.

Delegation Goes to Munich.
The entire Bavarian delegation to the national assembly left Weimar for Munich on receiving reports that Herr Auer, minister of the interior, had died from his wounds received in the shooting in the Landtag and that a state of chaos existed in Bavaria.

Their absence may postpone still further committee consideration and debate on the new constitution, as it is considered more important to restore order in Bavaria than to debate the proposed constitution.

EMPLOYMENT IS PROMISED

Premier Paderewski Quietens Disorderly Mob at Warsaw. Warsaw, Feb. 24.—A crowd apparently made up of persons out of work and led by Bolshevik agents made a demonstration before the hotel Bristol, where Premier Paderewski and the inter-allied mission to Poland have their headquarters.

The Premier's automobile was stopped as he was leaving the hotel and M. Paderewski was forced to make a speech. He promised the demonstrators work as soon as possible.

Mexican Police Take Drastic Steps to Check Raids.

Brownsville, Texas, Feb. 22.—Nineteen men, eight of whom were from the same community, 20 miles up the Rio Grande from Matamoros, have so far been summarily executed by the state police of the Mexican state of Tamaulipas, in a campaign to end banditry along the lower Texas-Mexican border, according to reliable information in Matamoros.

Senate Adopts Conference Report on Military Discharges.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The senate adopted the conference report on the bill authorizing men discharged from the military service to retain their uniforms and allowing them 5 cents a mile for travel to their homes from places of discharge. The house is expected to take similar action in a few days.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Out of 41,711 cars of spring wheat inspected at Duluth from July 15 to Dec. 31, 1918, 35,180 cars, or 84 per cent, were graded No. 1, according to reports of licensed inspectors made to the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture, and made public here.

Getting Data on Allied Needs.

Washington, Feb. 24.—In anticipation of Congressional action authorizing the War Finance corporation to assist in financing foreign trade transactions, the corporation, in co-operation with the Treasury and the War Trade board, has gathered information as to possible needs of Allied countries for imports from the United States in the next few months. Many orders, officials declared, would have been placed before this but for difficulties of obtaining adequate credits in the United States.

BIG SUPPLY BILLS HAVE POOR SHOW

ARMY, NAVY AND POST OFFICE MEASURES LIKELY TO FAIL IN THIS CONGRESS.

WILL GO TO EXTRA SESSION

Senator Johnson Always Has Interested Audience When He Speaks—Quin Says Some Harsh Things About the General Staff.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington.—Although the leaders in congress are making extraordinary efforts to close up business, there is a general belief that at least half a dozen of the big supply bills will have failed to pass when the gavel falls, which ends the Sixty-fifth congress. It seems altogether likely that among the measures which will fail will be the navy bill and the army bill, both of vital necessity for the government at this time, when the country is emerging from war. The hitch on the naval bill is on account of the extensive three-year program which is said by some to be advanced by the president to be used as a club to bring certain nations to terms in the peace negotiations. The opposition to that program in the house, in view of the fact that it was known to be desired by the president, was larger than expected. In the senate there is more independence and no limit to debate and it would not be surprising to see a long talk on the naval bill.

There are quite a number of senators who think that there should be a substantial program laid out in any army legislation that is passed, either as to the size of a standing army or for universal military training, and if an attempt is made to modify the army bill, as it passes the house, it will also come in for a long discussion. There is some intimation that the postoffice appropriation bill will fail because it carries the $200,000,000 appropriation for good roads. The cry for economy in government expenditures and the warnings which have been uttered in regard to extravagance and the danger point which the government is approaching in the matter of raising money has caused some alarm and may result in the defeat of a number of bills which are carrying huge appropriations.

Senator Johnson of California does not talk long on any subject, but he always has an audience in the senate and particularly in the press gallery. It is a rather interesting fact that when word is passed through the lobby back of the press gallery that "Johnson is up," there is a rush of newspaper correspondents because they feel sure that he is apt to say something well worth reporting. And they are never disappointed. Whenever he talks the question comes up as to how the official reporters are able to keep up with him, for he talks very fast and uses words out of the ordinary, words rather hard to pronounce, but which show that he knows just what he wants to say, and has a large vocabulary. For the past few weeks Johnson has been hammering at the administration because it retains troops in Russia, insisting that congress has not declared war on Russia, and for that reason the United States has no business to be making war on any part of her people.

It appears from discussion of the army appropriation bill in the house that, under the law which permitted the complete reorganization of all the departments of the government for war purposes, the main change has been made in the war department. Congressman Quin of Mississippi, a member of the military committee, told the house that they had built up in the general staff of the war department "a duplicate and replica of the hated and contemptible German system. They took the virility out of the office of the adjutant general until he is now in reality nothing but a chief clerk down there." Quin also said that the general staff had practically taken away a great deal of power of the secretary of war. One sentiment he expressed which will probably be endorsed was that this country will not stand for any large army.

When congress passed the draft act it inserted a proviso that aliens who had taken out only their first citizenship papers were not subject to the draft provided they turned in their papers to the government and relinquished their claim on American citizenship. Congressman Johnson of Washington recently read a telegram in the house from a number of his constituents urging that men who had availed themselves of that proviso be deported. Johnson expressed a fervent hope that the purpose of the telegram would be fulfilled. "We should get rid of all non-Americans among us," he continued, "who either cannot or will not become citizens. We should be through with their languages. We should be through with the philosophies they bring, the revolutions they preach. I am not a brother to the Japanese and the Hindu, nor am I a brother to the anarchist and nihilist, nor can all of the internationalism that can be preached from all of the high places of the world."

TO FURNISH NEEDED DATA

Division in Department of Labor That Will Encourage Development of Building Announced.

Creation of a new division in the department of labor, to interest the nation in public works and private construction, was announced by Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson.

It will gather and distribute information to enable private industries to make the transition from a war to a peace basis without serious interruption, "obviating uncertainty or hesitation for want of the practical data upon which business judgment must depend," the official announcement says.

Louis F. Post of Chicago, assistant secretary of labor, in a statement asserting that the government does not look forward to any unemployment crisis and that there is no reason for alarm over the future, urged a revival of building to tide over the period of industrial reconstruction.

"Many municipalities throughout the country," Mr. Post added, "and many states as well have during the war either abandoned or suspended large public improvements. The federal government itself has practically abandoned its building program for the last two years."

"This accumulation of work should be undertaken at once as a means of providing buffer employment to carry us beyond the transition period and take up such unemployment slack as may result."

ORGANIZED LABOR SEEN AS Foe OF BOLSHEVISM.

"Organized American labor is the one and only great protection against bolshevism in the United States," said Attorney Francis J. Heney in his arguments for an increase in wages and betterment of working conditions of stockyards employees before Federal Judge Alschuler at Chicago, who as federal arbiter has been asked to increase the wages he fixed at a hearing early last year.

"Organized labor stands for securing improved conditions of working and living for the masses through lawful and peaceful means. Millions are driven by despair to seek these conditions by force and violence in Russia and elsewhere."

International Labor Court.

The British war cabinet is considering a proposal which may have an important bearing on future labor questions throughout the world, according to the London Express.

The proposal is to ask the peace conference, at one of its earliest sessions, to appoint a commission to inquire into the question of an international adjustment of conditions of employment and to submit plans for a permanent international court and organization to secure joint action in such matters.

"It is certain," says the newspaper, that the suggestion will be adopted, and it is also certain it will result in an organization, as part of an active league of nations, to prepare the way for international regulation of conditions of employment, which would be a death-blow to 'swabbing'."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, then Back hurts and Bladder bothers you.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

PRES. WILSON ARRIVES HOME FROM EUROPE

THWART PLOT TO MURDER WILSON

Fourteen Anarchists Are Arrested in New York and Mute Evidence Found.

MEN PREPARING BOMB

Secret Service Agents and Police Say Intention of Reds Was to Hurl Explosive at President on Boston Street.

New York, Feb. 24.—What is believed to have been an attempt upon the life of President Wilson in Boston after he had passed ten weeks abroad in security was thwarted by vigilance of United States secret service agents and quick action by the New York police.

Anarchists of three cities—New York, Boston and Philadelphia—are thought to have been behind the plot, which was to hurl a bomb at the chief executive as he passed through the streets of the New England metropolises.

Members of I. W. W. Fourteen aliens, admittedly anarchists, and most of them acknowledging membership in the Industrial Workers of the World, are behind the bars in police headquarters following a raid upon the headquarters of an organization into which they were banded, at 1722 Lexington avenue and on the rooms of some of the men at 415 West Fifty-third street.

Two of the men—Elario Orestissa, of 2640 E. or W. Norris street, Philadelphia, and Florin Medina Veita, of the same address—one of them a chemist and the other a machinist, came to this city only on Saturday from Philadelphia. In their rooms the police found parts of a machine which they think was to have been used in making the bomb.

On the person of one of the New York men arrested was found the address of two places in Boston that the police think are anarchist strongholds and which the federal authorities are investigating.

Agent in Boston, Theory.

The theory of the plot, as evolved by the authorities, is that the two men from Philadelphia were sent to this city to make the bomb and that someone from New York was to go to Boston Sunday or Monday morning and hurl it, being shielded when in that city by the comrades of disorder there. Efforts are being made by the federal authorities, it was said, to seek for any possible connection between the anarchists now under arrest and the men responsible for the recent bomb outrages in Philadelphia.

The 14 men are members of the Spanish branch of the I. W. W.

The premier partook of a hearty breakfast and then was examined by the doctors, but did not joke with them as much as usual.

DEFENDS BREST CAMP

General Pershing Denies Conditions Are Unsanitary.

Replies to Cablegram of Protest Sent to President Wilson by New York Paper.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The war department made public another report from General Pershing, denying that unsanitary and unhealthy conditions exist in the American embarkation camp at Brest, France.

The commander-in-chief, replying to a cablegram of protest sent by a New York newspaper to President Wilson and forwarded to him by the president, summarized a report which he had received from Maj. Gen. Eli A. Helmick, inspector general's department of the expeditionary forces, commanding at Brest.

The cablegram of protest sent to the president charged that soldiers from the front and Red Cross nurses were practically held prisoners while in the Brest camp and, if complaint was made, were put at the bottom of the sailing list; that wounded and ill were forced to stand in the rain for hours for meals; that officers were overbearing and harsh, and that conditions generally were unsanitary.

Declaring the charge that soldiers from the front and nurses were confined to quarters was "absolutely groundless," General Helmick reported as follows:

"No individual has been put at the bottom of the sailing list. One organization was held 15 days on account of bad state of discipline and neglect of duty and was released before expiration of time set on account of honest efforts made to correct deficiencies."

URNS OVER CANTEN WORK

Y. M. C. A. Has Other Duties to Perform in France.

Chaumont, Feb. 24.—The American Y. M. C. A., at its own request, has been relieved of its work in maintaining the post exchanges with the American army.

Correspondence exchanged between General Pershing and E. C. Carter, in charge of Y. M. C. A. with the army, shows that the reason for this arrangement was that the Y. M. C. A. now has "increased responsibilities promoting educational, athletic and entertainment activities in the American Expeditionary Force."

A few hours later the majority and independent socialists effected an amalgamation and claimed administration.

Mexico City, Feb. 24.—President Carranza is considering a plan submitted by the National Board of Health for the enactment of legislation that will gradually result in the complete abolition of the alcoholic liquor traffic in Mexico. The constitution, according to the officials of the board of health, gives that body powers to dictate health regulations.

Boston, Feb. 24.—President Wilson landed at the Commonwealth pier at 11:53 this morning. He left the George Washington and went aboard the cutter at 11:05. There was a strong west wind making the sea choppy. As the president boarded the Ossipee his ensign was unfurled at the mast head. Great cheering broke on shore. The Ossipee drew up to the pier at 11:45, but there was some difficulty in placing the gang plank. Ranks of troops presented arm when the president left the cutter at the pier, arriving after his history making trip to Europe. High officers of the navy and army greeted the president, and the Boston welcoming committee was at hand. The president walked over a velvet carpet beneath a canopy of flags. Three airplanes kept up a circling watch throughout the morning.

Just before the president started for his hotel it was learned that twenty-two militant suffragists had been arrested at the capitol where they planned to confront President Wilson and burn his speeches.

The George Washington, on which the president came from Brest arrived in Boston Harbor at five Sunday night, in rough weather. It was snowing and only by the flash of a streak of sunlight did it become known that the liner was headed straight for the shores of Thetecher's Island north of Boston light. An accompanying convoy cut across the path of the George Washington warning her of the danger. She was reversed and a half hour wasted before she could proceed to the harbor.

The president is confident the League of Nations will be endorsed.

EXISTS IN HIGH PLACES

Senator Jones of Washington Denounces Anarchy.

Attacks Newspapers and Public Men for Alleged Attempts to Nullify Prohibition Laws.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Senator Jones, of Washington, in a speech urging adherence to the old doctrines of Americanism, declares "Bolshevism exists in high places as well as among the masses."

"We denounce Bolshevism and say that the way to meet it is to shoot it, but the best way is to adjust differences and correct injustice with genuine Americanism and a firm adherence to the basic principles of the government of our fathers," he declared.

"We hear much denunciation of Bolshevism today. I do not defend it. I abhor what I conceive its essence to be. We cannot make headway against Bolshevism in the masses, however, until we get rid of it in high places. The best antidote for it is intense respect for law and an ardent love for our institutions and principles of government and a faithful adherence to them by those in authority."

Referring to alleged attempts of newspapers and public men to nullify prohibition laws, the Washington senator declared:

"By their words and their acts they are defiers of law, breeders of revolution, teachers of Bolshevism, un-Americanism and unpatriotism. They do not urge the law's enforcement. They incite and encourage resistance to it."

CECIL FAVORS LEAGUE

British Peace Envoy Calls War Stupid and Barbarous.

Declares Resort to Arms is Worst Possible Way of Settling International Disputes.

London, Feb. 24.—Lord Robert Cecil, in an interview with Reuters' Limited before his return to Paris to attend the sessions of the peace conference, admitted that it was absurd to suggest that the mere signing of the League of Nations covenant would produce a millennium, but if given a fair chance, he said, it would certainly produce a better international atmosphere.

"If you can get into the heads of those who direct the affairs of nations that war is the worst possible way of settling international disputes, you will have made a great advance," he continued.

Once you have impressed the world with the fact that war is stupid—stupid and barbarous—you will have gone far to create the feeling of security that will render disarmament possible.

"The unanimity of the conference makes it certain that the league will be established as soon as the peace preliminaries are signed. The league will comprise not only the Allies, but all neutral nations."

LEADERS PLAN TO RUSH LOAN BILL

Measure Provides Sinking Fund to Retire Government Bonds in Twenty-Five Years.

ALLIES TO PAY CLAIMS

Treasury Official Denies That Entente Powers Expect United States to Cancel Debts Resulting from Loans During War.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The ways and means committee has reported to the house Liberty Loan legislation providing for a sinking fund to retire government bonds in 25 years, continuing the war finance corporation so it may aid American export commerce, permitting further loans for sale to foreign governments of equipment sent abroad by the United States for war purposes and carrying provisions designed to stabilize the price of past issues of bonds.

Chairman Kitchin announced that he planned to call the bill before the house late Tuesday, after passage of the sundry civil appropriation bill.

Quick Action Planned.

Quick disposal of the measure is planned by administration leaders, for on its passage largely depends the date of a special session. Failure of the senate to pass the bill before adjournment, March 4, Mr. Kitchin said, probably would mean an extra session by April 1. Should the bill be passed now, he said, he did not believe it would be necessary for congress to meet until about May 15.

The present record of executive hearings by the committee on the legislation contained official denial that the Allies expected the United States to forgive debts resulting from loans advanced during the war.

"Officials of foreign governments have always expressed the intention of their governments to pay the indebtedness, and have said that they had no intention of doing anything else," Albert Rathbone, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of its foreign loan bureau, told the committee when questioned about the loans that approximate $8,500,000,000.

The sinking fund is provided by direct appropriation from the Treasury of 2 1/2 per cent of the aggregate amount of Liberty bonds and notes that will be outstanding on July 1, 1920. The amount, the committee said, was expected to be $18,000,000,000.

GERMAN OFFICIALS PROTEST

Object to American Supplies Being Sent to Poland.

Paris, Feb. 24.—In spite of annoying efforts by Germans to hinder provisioning of Poland, the Supreme Food and Relief council has landed three shiploads of food in Danzig, and sent the food by railway to Warsaw, where it is being distributed under Allied control.

According to Dr. Vernon Kellogg, American member of the Supreme Relief council, who has just returned to Paris from Poland, the Germans did not dare to offer serious opposition to shipments through German territory and over German railways to Poland, but minor officials complained bitterly and said Germany should be fed before Poland.

HOUSE PASSES WHEAT BILL

Carries One Billion Dollars to Guarantee Price.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The wheat guarantee bill, authorizing the President to use existing agencies or create new ones to buy wheat of the 1918 and 1919 crops at the government guaranteed price and dispose of it at market prices, was passed by the house by a vote of 277 to 15.

The bill gives the President broad powers to buy and sell wheat through any agency he may see fit to create, control storage and transportation and restrict imports and exports.

The measure carries an appropriation of $1,000,000,000.

GOVERNMENT EXPENSES HIGH

Financial Needs Next Year May Exceed Revenue.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Estimates of governmental expenditures for next year, gathered by Secretary Glass from the various departments, indicate that the financial needs may run above the $4,000,000,000 to be provided by taxes and that additional tax levies must be made or short term securities sold to tide over the government for a year.

Estimates of expenses for the fiscal year, 1920, beginning July 1 and ending June 30, 1920, range from $6,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000.

GOOD ARGUMENT FOR SHORT DAY

Office Manager Tells How His Concern Has Benefited by Change.

APPRECIATED BY EMPLOYEES

Results Have Been Better Work and General Feeling of Contentment and Loyalty, While General Expenses Have Decreased.

"In our line of business," writes the office manager of the western department of a fire insurance company, in System, "the office hours generally accepted are 8 to 5:30, with an hour for luncheon. That makes an eight and one-half hour day. The argument used in favor of these hours is usually: 'The work is all routine; the employees will not work at their top speed all day; routine work permits long hours without affecting output; and so to get the necessary output an eight and one-half hour day is necessary.'"

"We used to work on that theory, too. But a few years ago we decided that the routine worker appreciates shorter hours, and will show his appreciation by getting out his work faster if the situation is put up to him right."

"So we decreased our day to eight hours in the face of the trade tradition. Then we went to seven and one-half hours and later to seven as we saw output increasing with shorter hours. Later we decreased the lunch period to 45 minutes, and closed the office 15 minutes earlier. We get perhaps 25 per cent more work from each employee, as a result, than do other concerns whose work is practically identical with ours."

"We say, in effect, to our employees: 'You come to work at 8:30 and quit at 4:15; in the summer you come at 8 and leave at 3:45. That means that you have better working hours than any other concern would give you. Our rate of pay is the same as in other offices. In fairness we demand from you the best there is in you, every minute of your seven hours that we are buying.'"

"We do not permit smoking during office hours—not because we object to tobacco, but because it is a distraction. No 'visiting' is permitted; the clerk who insists on talking during office hours must go, if he refuses to change his ways. The girls do not go to the washroom to powder their noses and comb their hair during the morning—it's contrary to the spirit of the office. Even the office boys may be depended upon to waste little time when they run errands outside the office."

"Office expense cost us less for each $1,000 of insurance in force than it costs any other concern I know. We can fill a vacancy without an effort; our employees are practically fixtures in the office, even under present-day labor conditions. Our seven-hour day is the reason; can anyone deny that it pays us?"

Keep Children in School.
Girls and boys of school age can best serve their country and themselves at this time by attending school. As the children's bureau points out, the final victory in the recent war may come 20 years hence, and it will come to the nation with the strongest and best trained men and women. Keeping children in school is not an economic loss. Education not only makes for finer civilization, and a fuller individual life, but it makes for higher wages and greater productivity.—Indianapolis News.

LEAVE IT TO "PAL"

Dog's Owner Relies on Animal's Intelligence.

Offspring of Gray Wolf and Highly Bred Scottish Guardian of Sheep, Four-Footed Companion is Beyond Value.

While in Alabama I made the acquaintance with the strangest dog I have ever heard of—the most unique creature it has been my province to get acquainted with, writes George F. Borba in the Columbus Dispatch. He belongs to a man living at Tysonville, but is known all over the state and his name is "Pal."

Pal's mother was a shepherd and lived on the plains out West, where she looked after a big herd of sheep. In fact, she was one of the best sheep dogs in the whole region. His father was a gray wolf. So Pal is half wolf and half dog—a common enough thing out West.

Pal grew up with the sheep his mother looked after, and learned all the tricks of rounding them up and bringing them in. But he learned a whole lot more than the average sheep dog knows. He learned that every other animal as well as sheep can be directed and guided and taken care of if you know how to do it. So when Pal's owner wants any certain animal on the farm brought in, he simply tells the dog what he wants and Pal attends to it. He can tell the dog to go to the pasture a mile away and bring in a certain mule and he goes and brings it in. He can direct him to bring in a certain cow or calf or hog and it is done.

But the strange thing about it is that Pal also brings in other dogs. His owner has numerous bird dogs, which he trains upon the plantation. Pal helps train them. If a dog gets too far away, the trainer says, "Pal, bring him in," and Pal does so. He runs to the dog and crowds him toward the owner. He simply will not let him go in any other direction. He doesn't fight the other dog, although at times it may be necessary for him to take hold of an ear and nip it a little. But he annoys the dog until there is nothing else for it to do but to be guided by Pal.

Then Pal is the high sheriff or policeman of the whole plantation. He keeps the peace between the other animals. If two dogs get into a fight, Pal separates them. If he finds a couple of hogs or chickens fighting, he does the same thing. He doesn't bother anything upon the plantation unless it is doing something it ought not to do, and then he takes a hand in the matter and settles it. If he finds a pig in a field where it doesn't belong, he drives it out without being directed to do so. If a horse slips its bridle while hitched to the hitching post and cavsorts down the road, it is only for a few moments, for Pal is close upon its heels or at its nose and he brings it back and keeps it standing where it was left.

Taking the Next Census.

The government takes stock of its resources this year. July 1, 1919, begins the next decennial census of the population and industries of the United States. It comes fittingly at an important epoch in the nation's destiny and at a time when we are launching upon a new era of expansion and foreign interest. Thomas R. Logan says in Leslie's. Our statesmen and students will be deeply concerned in the data accumulated as to the value of our industries as well as to their extent. It will be a greatly energized and strengthened America which the new census taker will find. He will observe and record the effects of the war upon our industrial life. He will report also the exact number of our citizens by races and ages. It will be possible to determine how far General Crowder's draft registration tell sheet of the actual number of population of draft age. The last census showed 18,781,324 population. Guesses as to the present population range from 195,000,000 to as high as 212,000,000. Records of the war, of influenza, without compensating immigration, have abated our rate of increase. Despite this, the totals may surprise us.

It will be a farce comedy replete with Irish songs and dances and will be presented Monday evening, March 17. The cast includes H. P. Dunn as Richard Ford, a devoted young husband.

Mrs. Clyde E. Burnett as Molly, his wife.

Harold E. Webb as Robert Shepard, Molly's father.

People have eagerly awaited the announcement of the cast for this play. Miss Marie Clark under whose direction it will be given, has striven not only to secure a cast that would well interpret the various roles, but one that would also be of extreme interest to the public.

Postmaster Dunn will be remembered as being a popular star in local talent work some ten or more years ago. His return to theatricals will undoubtedly create a big sensation.

Mrs. Clyde E. Burnett is a real artist in dramatic work, one could hardly call her an amateur. The role of Molly, the newlywed, is played

When "The Better Half" comes to the Best theatre tomorrow, Alice Brady will be seen in the latest and best of her Select Pictures in the double role of twin sisters. The story was adapted for the screen by Louis Sherwin from Miriam Michelson's novel, "Michael Thwaite's Wife." It was directed by J. S. Robertson.

The ease and skill with which Miss Brady portrays the double role of twin sisters make this picture one of the best she has ever done. The sympathetic role of Louise is one which is especially adapted to the versatile Miss Brady, and the entire picture leaves nothing to be desired. It is a remarkable accomplishment by a very accomplished actress.

Barrett Has American Plan.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 24.—Suggestion that international questions affecting nations of the Western hemisphere should be left to the Pan-American union for settlement, instead of the proposed league of nations, was made by John Barrett, director general of the union, speaking here at a luncheon given by civic organizations. He said the union was a working, limited, official league of the American nations that has stood steadfastly for the solidarity of the American republic.

Rare Tropical Woods.

The woodlands of temperate climates yield of course the bulk of the world's lumber, but comparatively few treasures; but those of the tropics are filled with rare cabinet woods, spice woods, dye woods, and many with medicinal virtues. Their name is legion. Some are of vital importance, too, in the industries, such as the rubber and gutta percha trees. The forest resources of the Philippines are only slightly explored, but they are known to contain vast stores of wood products representing incalculable wealth. They were practically untouched during the Spanish regime, and fortunately for the future of the islands they have been wisely administered since the American occupation.

Happy Japanese Children.

"Of all the happy beings on the face of the earth," Miss du Pont exclaimed, "the happiest are the children of Japan. I can think of no happier fate than to be born one of these little ones. The love of children in Japan is beyond anything that we can conceive of. All grown people are their willing slaves. This does not mean, however, that Japanese children are either spoiled or despotic as many petted American children are. Brought up in households where consistent courtesy is the rule, not the spasmodic effort for company, the children really absorb very charming manners."

New York Women Transports Ostent Bath House to the Summer Sands of Palm Beach

MRS. CHARLES DILLINGHAM

Palm Beach has many attractions at this time of the year when the winds blow cold in the north. It also has its sensations. One of the recent sensations was Mrs. Charles B. Dillingham's Ostent bath house on wheels which reminded many of the members of the society colony of happy days spent before the war at the famous Belgian beach. Mrs. Dillingham's bathing suit is the very latest thing in Palm Beach bathing equipment.

BOLSHEVIKI FREE LOVE

Official decrees on the nationalization of women regarding application of the free love doctrine under the bolshevik regime in Russia were read by Roger E. Simmons, former representative at Petrograd of the United States department of commerce, to the senate committee investigating bolshevik propaganda in the United States.

The first decree was dated March 25 1918 and was issued by the anarchist soviet which was charged by Lenin and Trotsky with the government of the city of Saratov.

The whole institution of marriage was done away with and women between the ages of 17 and 32 became the property of all men. The distribution and management of the appropriated women was transferred to the Anarchist Saratov club. Children resulting were to be taken care of by an institution.

This matter of having wives in common seems to have been accepted following the decrees issued. Similar regulations were adopted by the soviet of the cities of Vladimir, Luga, Kolpin, etc.

God, religion, morality common decency seem to have been invaded by the Bolsheviki in their wild desire to revolutionize their country.

No wonder every decent community in America from Seattle to New York is sweeping out the Bolsheviki and their doctrines.

STRANGE VISITORS TO INDIANS

Savages Not Unnaturally Alarmed When Airmen "Dropped In" to Their Village.

Army aviators stationed at France field, near Cristobal, in the Panama canal zone, are required to do much of their flying over water and along the coast. Recently two pilots made a flight in the Gulf of St. Blas, which is situated on the Atlantic coast about one hundred miles west of France field. The mainland and small islands in the gulf are inhabited by Indians, who are very unfriendly.

Due to the overheating of a motor one of the pilots was compelled to descend, and landed on one of the most populous of the islands. His companion in the second airplane followed him. Consternation reigned among the natives when the two airplanes "taxied" up to the dugout village and came to a halt. What followed is described in the bulletin of the air service which contains an official report of the trip:

"It is doubtful who was the most fearful on this occasion, for when the bearded pilots alighted from their machines the entire population of the island was lined up, armed to the teeth. The chief of the village very reluctantly took his place at the head of this aggregation and with a machete in his hand greeted the visitors with a scowl.

"One of the pilots was a new arrival in Panama and unfamiliar with stories about the unfriendliness of the Indians. As soon as he stepped on the beach he rushed up and greeted the chief in a very effusive manner, and fortunately his friendly smile was properly interpreted. After this the pilots were permitted to go through the village, and by way of courtesy the chief was asked by means of signs to take a ride in one of the airplanes, which invitation was not accepted."

The pilots tried to take pictures of the Indians, but the appearance of the camera aroused such hostility that they finally gave up the attempt. Before leaving the village the chief and a few of the young men were induced to smoke cigarettes which the aviators produced.

The purchases were divided as follows: Fourth Liberty Bonds, $35,000,000; Third Liberty Bonds, $115,935,500; Second Liberty converted 4 1/4's, $132,285,000; Second Liberty 4's, $65,050,000; and First Liberty converted 4's, $65,050,000.

German Cities are Yankeeized

(By United Press)

Coblenz, Feb. 4 (By Mail).—The Americanization of the villages and towns in the occupied area is in full sway, aided by the powerful influence of the doughboy's plentiful supply of marks and pfennigs. Every store and shop shows evidence of the American occupation, and the desire of the proprietor thereof to acquire the mark and pfennig by catering to His Majesty, the American doughboy.

Within a few days after entrance of American troops the more progressive stores blossomed out with signs in English and cards announcing that "American is spoken here." The postcard photographers began to reap a harvest snapshotting American soldiers. Their windows are filled with sample photographs of Americans ranged alongside of the old stock of frowning German colicels and grinning German soldiers posed with their rifles held stiffly at attention. One business college has started a course in English, plastering the town of Coblenz with advertising offering to teach English in three weeks. Before the regulation prohibiting sale of liquor cafe-owners discovered the peculiarities of the American palate and were advertising Manhattan and Bronx cocktails and a concoction labeled "Pershing cocktail" on the same menus with "Hindenburg Punch."

The astute German business man soon discovered the overpowering desire of the Americans for souvenirs, and several new souvenir shops were opened, and advertising "Souvenirs of the War" and selling cheap jewelry with the Iron Cross design and the German imperial coat of arms. The postcard shops, which have been in hard luck since the flocks of tourists ceased junketing up and down the Rhine, began to do a landoffice business.

The German military tailors in Coblenz who were in the depth of black despair when the German army withdrew, perked up when they found they could sell their stocks of gaudy helmets and military insignia to Americans for twice the market price. Some of them advertise to make American uniforms if the cloth is furnished.

Many of the restaurants are printing their menus partly in English and specializing in American dishes, and several even advertise "American ice cream," which, although expensive, is passably good.

When the order came that troops attached to the Third army must wear an insignia consisting of little concentric circles in red white and blue around the letter "A," the German tailors got busy and within a day or two were displaying samples of the army insignia.

At least one dealer in notions had an unexpected windfall. At the outbreak of the war he had on hand a large stock of the flags of all nations, including several hundred American flags, which he had been selling to restaurant keepers to decorate tourist tables. Upon his return home after demobilization this canny shopkeeper soon found that he could sell the American flags to truckdrivers to decorate their motor trucks. His stock was soon exhausted.

German shopkeepers are amazed at the strange wants of the American souvenir hunters. For instance they cannot understand why husky doughboys want women's paper corsets, substitutes for shoes manufactured with wooden soles and cloth or paper uppers, paper tablecloths, paper bedsheets, and the hundred and one substitutes which the shops have on sale. One doughboy upset the routine of one of the big stores by trying to buy a suit of women's paper underwear. With a half dozen words of German and a wealth of appropriate gestures he vainly tried to put over the idea. The whole staff of the store was gathered to watch his antics when a German-speaking soldier entered and came to his aid. The amazement of the crowd was undisguised, but he got the underwear.

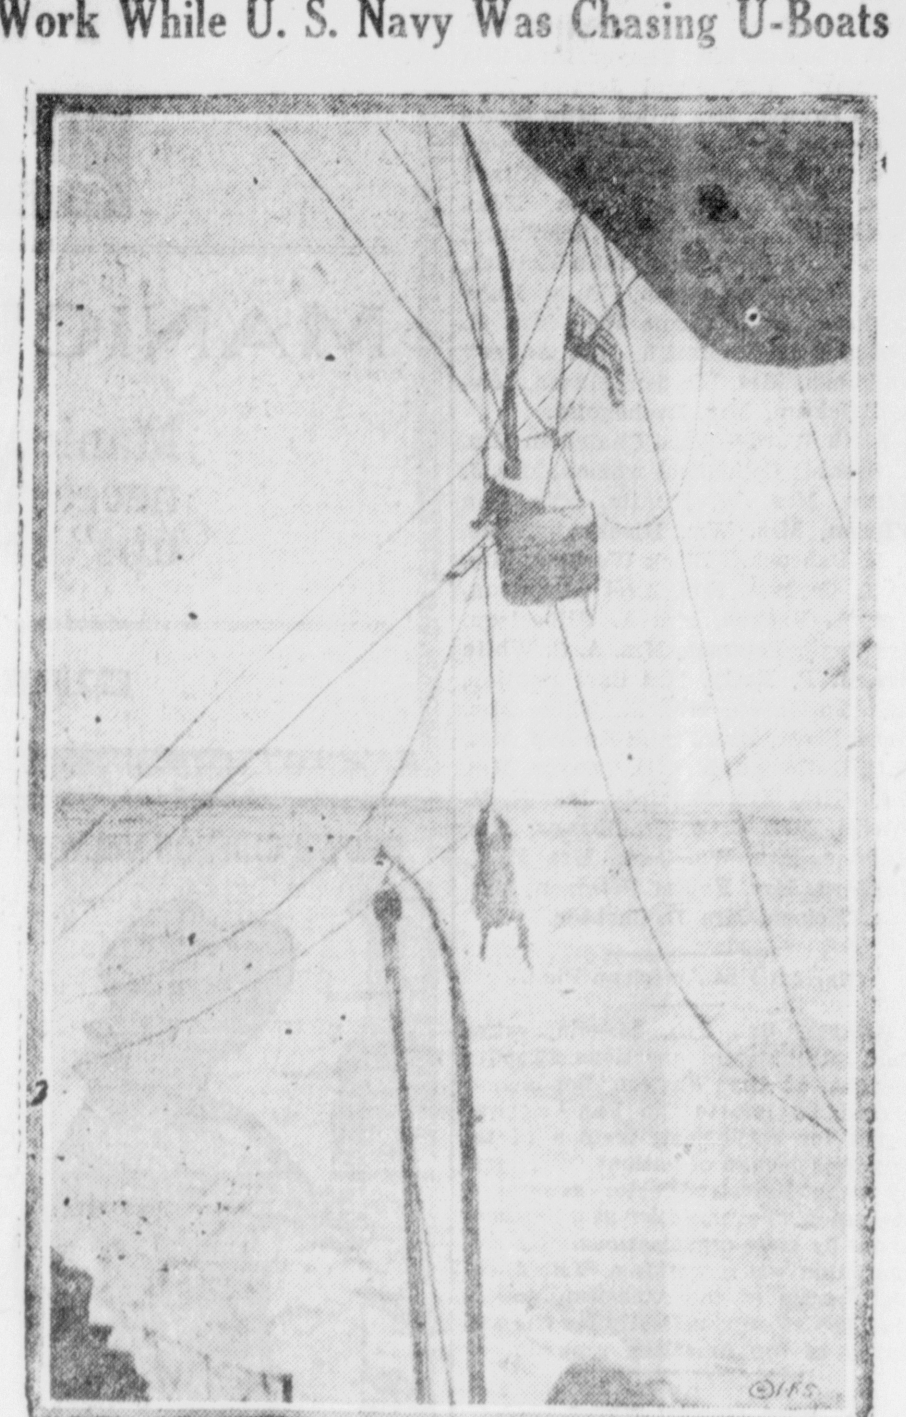

Another soldier left a trail of wonderment when he entered a millinery store and came away with one of the women's hats that had been displayed in the window. He explained he wanted to send it to his sister.

Despite their mystification at the needs of the American doughboy, the shopkeepers are rapidly adapting themselves to the new order of things and proving that the trade follows the mark and the pfennig, regardless of color of the flag under which it comes.

Not a Circus Stunt, Just Part of the Day's Work While U. S. Navy Was Chasing U-Boats

This is not a circus stunt. It was just part of the day's work with the American navy when it was helping to end the U-boat menace. The picture shows the observer of a huge naval balloon being relieved after his tour of duty aloft. He is descending to the deck of a far ship at sea by means of the rigging and a pulley. Early in the war it was the custom to pull the balloon down to the deck of the mother ship but this took too much time.

COMING BACK TWICE, IT'S KID GLEASON

BY H. C. HAMILTON, (Staff Correspondent, United Press)

CHAPTER IX

When the world's championship had been safely locked away in the Comiskey strong box and the winter dope began to percolate about it was quietly rumored that Kid Gleason soon would succeed Clarence Rowland as the real leader of the Sox, so he slipped out of the way and went into retirement for a time. He never, so far as has been learned, made the slightest effort to gain for himself the position he now holds.

When the 1918 campaign opened, there was no Gleason on the field to help direct play, no Gleason at the parks during the mornings to instruct and fight. He had dropped out of the way of the youthful leader who deserved more of the credit for sending the White Sox to their victory the previous fall. Gleason gave his assistance, but not in the way he had before, and the gradual slipping and falling of the Sox began to result.

It was a truly great aggregation which whipped the Giants in the fall of 1917 and won the world's championship, and when a few of the coas began to slip they wrecked the chances of Chicago to witness another championship contest with the White Sox involved. It wasn't only a lack of Gleason aid that hurt the team and it wasn't the fault of Clarence Rowland that the players were not able to gather in another championship, but it all helped and it all hurt.

It may be that this is the reason for Comiskey's suddenly cutting the strings that bound him to Clarence Rowland and deciding to give a chance to the more experienced and older player—Kid Gleason.

But Gleason already has stuck out his chin and laid down the law to his boss—something Rowland never did.

Gleason has informed Comiskey that Gleason is going to manage the club and that, so long as he manages it, he will say who does and who does not wield a bat for the South Side of Chicago. So, he has made arrangements to welcome back to the fold Joe Jackson, Happy Felsch and Claude Williams, players whom Comiskey barred when they jumped him last year to engage in "necessary occupations." Gleason declares these players shall have a chance and if they still have the goods they will continue on the White Sox payroll, regardless of Comiskey's feelings.

Dixie Doughboys are Going Back to Farm

(By United Press)

Columbia, Tenn., Feb. 24.—Back to the farm is no imaginary movement among the soldiers in the A. E. F. If letters received from many Tennessee boys now overseas are to be taken as accurate indications.

Scores of these soldiers have written to relatives and friends asking that provisions be made for them to farm this year. One officer who was not a farmer before going to war has asked his father to have a farm ready for him when he returns.

Others who shunned farm work before going to France seem to have caught the fever and are asking for land to rent or buy. Practically every man from this section who farmed prior to entering the service has gone back to tilling the soil upon being discharged.

It is thought that the intensive methods of the Europeans will be adopted by the soldiers when they return, thereby increasing the production of Tennessee farms.

Autos Were About to Become Very Scarce

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 24.—Only three days' supply of new automobiles were left in the hands of manufacturers on Nov. 11, when the armistice was signed, according to the report of C. C. Hanch, chief of the automobile products section of the war industries board.

The curtailment of manufacturing during the war built up the biggest demand the country has known for several years, the report indicates, and a period of great activity among the passenger car producers is indicated.

Some months will be required for manufacturers to reconvert their plants back to the normal basis, and the production of cars for 1919 probably will not reach the figures of 1917, when the production passed the one million mark.

Normal production on a large scale in the bigger plants probably will not be reached before next summer.

The Doctor's Advice

The first question the doctor asks is: are the bowels open and regular. If not he advises the use of a thorough cathartic for he recognizes the danger of clogged bowels.

As a precaution against sickness there is nothing better than to keep the bowels free from food-waste because of the dangerous poisons which are absorbed into the blood from that source.

Your druggist has a product called SALINOS which will completely empty the bowels, including the lower bowel where most poisons are formed. It is pleasant in taste and creates no habit. It is fully effective in cold water. It does not gripe.

Get a bottle. Take it in cold water first thing tomorrow morning.

TOWN IN AN UPROAR ON SATURDAY NIGHT

New Indian Agent Johnson Makes an Arrest on Midnight Train, Commotion at Depot

SHOTS FIRED ON THE STREET

Prisoner Gets Badly Cut up on Head. Five Cuts—Treated by a Doctor

The town was in an uproar on Saturday night when a new Indian agent, William Johnson, who had made an arrest on the St. Paul train tried to land his man in jail and the crowd took offense at the beating the man claimed he had received.

Johnson is said to have boarded the train at Little Falls and later arrested a man and slipped handcuffs on him. When the train arrived at Brainerd Johnson sought to take his prisoner to jail and called for help from the local police.

During the press of the crowd the prisoner in charge of Johnson, claimed to have been struck repeatedly by him and his face was soon covered with blood. The crowd demanded his release, that he be taken to a doctor. Johnson stuck to his prisoner and some shots were fired by him on Sixth street. At length Johnson released the man to Officer Albert Scott and the latter took him to Dr. C. S. Reimstad.

The latter said he found him, pretty badly bruised up. He had several cuts on top of the head, two over his forehead, one on the nose, two under his chin. The injured man told the doctor he thought he had been struck with a whip.

Officer Scott is reported to have accompanied the Indian agent to Pequot on the latter's return to Bemidji. Indian Agent Johnson went to Bemidji and made two arrests on the train on the way to the north country. He is a man of about 25, weight 160 pounds, recently served in the army six months and has seen four and a half years in government service in the Indian department at Hibbing, Chisholm, Bemidji and other points. Associates claim he is cool, not excitable and not quick tempered. He returned to Brainerd from Bemidji Monday noon and declined to make any statement. His left hand was injured in Bemidji ten days ago.

COURT HOUSE BILL TO BE CONSIDERED

Special Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Called Upon Request of Senator H. A. Swanson

SOME RECOMMENDATIONS MADE

Regular Club Dinner to Have Been Held Feb. 26th Has Been Postponed Into March

An important meeting and one in which every member of the Chamber of Commerce should be vitally interested is to be held this evening at 8 o'clock. It is called at the request of Senator Hilding A. Swanson, who is interesting himself in the court house bill which has passed the house and is now up to the senate. Senator Swanson has some recommendations to make which he thinks will add to the value of the property it is proposed to erect the court house upon, and he advised Attorney S. F. Alderman that he would be in Brainerd this evening and requested that a meeting be arranged for. Members are urged to come out and attend this meeting.

The regular club dinner, which was to have been held on Wednesday, February 26th, has been postponed over into March, on account of this special meeting of the chamber tonight, and coming so near as it does to the recent Ladies' Night.

FIRE LOSS IN COUNTY DECREASED

Gratifying Report Received From State Fire Marshal's Department in St. Paul

LOSS IN 1918 WAS $36,875

Sixteen Fires—Citizens of Crow Wing County to be Congratulated Reducing Fire Risks

Crow Wing County's fire loss during the last year was $36,875 from 16 fires.

This is gratifying as compared with the loss and number of fires in Crow Wing County last year, says Geo. H. Nettleton, Asst. Chief State Fire Marshal.

The citizens of Crow Wing County are to be congratulated on this splendid showing. In many counties in Minnesota there has been some decrease but there still is room for more reductions in this matter. However, if other sections of the state do as well as Crow Wing County, both the state and federal governments will feel satisfied that everything is being done to help prevent the useless fire waste.

W. H. SCHILLING ON SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK

New Superintendent of the State Sunday School Association Speaks at Bethlehem Church

DR. JOS. NICHOLSON PRESIDED

Community Training Class and Vacation Bible School are Suggested by the Speaker

A crowded house greeted the first appearance of W. H. Schilling, the new superintendent of the State Sunday School Association, last evening at the Bethlehem Lutheran church. A number of the churches had given up their evening services and the various ministers were on the platform and had some part in the meeting. Dr. Jos. Nicholson presided in the absence of Sergeant George Berggreen who is still in service.

The preliminary song service was under the direction of Rev. M. L. Hostager and the double quartet of the church. Mrs. George Berggreen in a solo was greatly appreciated.

Dr. Nicholson introduced Mr. Schilling as the successor of A. M. Locker, who has been state president for a number of years and as such is well known to the Minnesota Sunday School world. The present superintendent has been in educational work in Duluth for the past nine years being the assistant superintendent of public schools there. He is a man of fine presence cultured, and with a splendid enthusiasm for the Christian as well as the secular education of the boys and girls.

He feels that with all the excellence of training in the public school that the one element of highest importance is left out when the religious education of the child is overlooked that all the secular refinements are dulled and blunted because of the lack of the spiritual ideal. It is for this reason he has given himself to the religious educational mission.

Among the suggestions made by the speaker was the community training class and the vacation Bible school. The former is a class made up of all the denominations with instructors and officers chosen from the various churches for religious education. In this class the Teacher's Training text books could be used and those graduating from this department could serve as teachers in the Vacation Bible school. These suggestions were well received and may give rise to an interdenominational effort along these lines in the near future.

Around the three great appealing ideas—God; accountability; immortality the speaker grouped his address. "Plato," said he, "made as the basis of his philosophy the knowledge of self. 'Know thyself' was his central teaching." "Marcus Aurelius based his philosophical teaching on self control. 'Control thyself' was his motto." "Jesus Christ, the greatest of earth's teachers, emphasized the sacrificial in his teaching. 'Give thyself.' He brought to man the ideal of service. 'The greatest among you shall be servant of all.' 'I am among you as one that serveth.' It is this advance in teaching upon all others that has made the learned of the world speak of Jesus as the master teacher.

The officers chosen for the district association for the ensuing year are as follows: president, George Berggreen; vice-president, John Zander; secretary, Esther Fogelstrom; treasurer, Ben Anderson; superintendent children's division, Mrs. E. F. Whitlock; young people's division, Alfred Dillan; adult division, Sam Woodin; administrative, H. F. Michael; educational Professor Scherick.

Next summer the sixty-first convention of the State Association will be celebrated. Minnesota was one of the first states organized and is among the banner states in Sunday school work.

PICTORIAL HISTORY OF WAR COMPILED

Mayor R. A. Beise Appoints Frank S. Workman to Aid the Government in its Work

PICTURES WANTED OF CITY

Showing War Activities, Red Cross, Liberty Loan, Soldiers Leave-taking, Etc.

The War Department of the government has addressed the following letter to Mayor R. A. Beise and the latter has appointed Frank S. Workman to gather the pictorial record of war activities as desired:

WAR DEPARTMENT
Office of the Chief of Staff
Washington Feb. 17, 1919.

The Mayor, Brainerd, Minn.

Dear Sir:
In the compilation of the pictorial record of the war under the General Staff of the Army, it is desired that photographs representing all the important phases of war activity from every section of the country should be included. Certainly every city and its adjacent communities should be adequately represented with pictures showing the valuable work which it has done during the time of war.

To date, little or nothing has been received from Brainerd, however. This letter is an invitation to you to appoint some energetic individual or organization to collect and forward to this office the photographs desired in order that Brainerd and its vicinity may take its proper place in the historical records of this office. There is no limitation as to subject. Every activity, from extensive civic campaigns or celebrations to the simplest home work, will be welcome.

The State Council of Defense of Minnesota is making an effort to the same end throughout the state, and will, I am sure, appreciate this work now suggested in Brainerd as coordinate with its own.

MURLOWSKI COMING HOME

Private Frank Murlowski Arrived Safe and Sound in New York, Letter Written in January

Mr. and Mrs. Valentine T. Murlowski of 707 South Fourth street, were informed Friday that their son, Frank L. Murlowski had arrived safe and sound in New York City and was ordered to demobilize at camp and would soon be in Brainerd.

A letter from him dated Boutin, France, January 19, gave his last impressions of the old country. He wrote:

"Am all O. K. and hope you and pa are the same. From all reports the flu is worse than ever in the states again. We are lucky enough not to have a single case here or in the vicinity. I moved here day before yesterday. There are thirty of us boys in this place.

The only inconvenience we have is we have to walk about a mile to meals and drill. This place is the most home like we've had yet. We've got seven fellows in this room and had a dandy fire place. The other two billets of a Co. are called by us the Y. M. C. A. and K. of C. We call our place the Salvation Army billet.

It's raining to beat the band outside. I've been in rain so much I'm getting web footed like a duck. How's Aunt May and Charlie getting along? Give them both my best regards. Is pa working every day? Tell him to tell Butke hello for me. Well, it's quarter past eleven, so I guess I'll have to go up to mess, pretty soon.

Last Sunday I had chicken dinner and supper at a frog's house. I learned to parlez vous pretty good, at least enough to get by. I don't expect to leave here for a month or two yet, because the sea is so rough, traffic in the states blocked, seaport flu, and in fact I think we're lucky to be as well as we are. Out of the 600 men we got here, we've only got one sick man in the hospital. Believe me, that old mountain climbing in California sure made this a healthy outfit. I have not been sick once in the ten months of soldiering I've

Councilor Jahries Reported Slain and Several Army Officers Wounded.

RADICALS IN CONTROL

Anarchistic Element Threatens With Death Entire Classes of People as Reprisal for Assassination of Kurt Eisner.

Munich, Feb. 24.—During the rioting here Ministerial Councilor Jahries has been slain and several officers of the war office gravely wounded. The radical elements have threatened with death entire classes of the population as a reprisal for the assassination of Kurt Eisner.

A semi-official dispatch from Munich quoting a foreign ministry note, says the only persons killed in Munich were Kurt Eisner, the premier and Deputy Oeser. The dispatch says that Minister of War Rosshaupter was taken to a place of safety and the other reports of killings were unfounded.

Archbishop Faulhaber Arrested. Berlin, Feb. 24.—Archbishop Faulhaber, of the diocese of Wurzburg, who has been especially obnoxious to radicals, has been arrested by Munich rioters, according to the Zeitungskamp Mittag. All Munich newspapers have suspended publication temporarily.

Herr Auer, minister of the interior, and Count Arco Valley, who shot and killed Premier Eisner, were said to be alive, but both in a critical condition. Archbishop Faulhaber headed the Catholic bishops who last December protested formally against separation of the church and state and abolition of religious oversight of the schools.

Previous reports concerning the fate of Count Arco Valley have varied. One stated he was lynched by an angry mob, while another said he was shot and wounded by a naval guard who accompanied the premier at the time of the assassination.

Delegation Goes to Munich. The entire Bavarian delegation to the national assembly left Weimar for Munich on receiving reports that Herr Auer, minister of the interior, had died from his wounds received in the shooting in the Landtag and that a state of chaos existed in Bavaria.

EMPLOYMENT IS PROMISED

Premier Paderewski Quietens Disorderly Mob at Warsaw.

Warsaw, Feb. 24.—A crowd apparently made up of persons out of work and led by Bolshevik agents made a demonstration before the hotel Bristol, where Premier Paderewski and the inter-allied mission to Poland have their headquarters.

The Premier's automobile was stopped as he was leaving the hotel and M. Paderewski was forced to make a speech. He promised the demonstrators work as soon as possible.

Mexican Police Take Drastic Steps to Check Raids.

Brownsville, Texas, Feb. 22.—Nineteen men, eight of whom were from the same community, 20 miles up the Rio Grande from Matamoros, have so far been summarily executed by the state police of the Mexican state of Tamaulipas. In a campaign to end banditry along the lower Texas-Mexican border, according to reliable information in Matamoros.

LET'S MEN KEEP UNIFORMS

Senate Adopts Conference Report on Military Discharges.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The senate adopted the conference report on the bill authorizing men discharged from the military service to retain their uniforms and allowing them 5 cents a mile for travel to their homes from places of discharge. The house is expected to take similar action in a few days.

SPRING WHEAT SETS RECORD

Of 41,711 Cars at Duluth 84 Per Cent Were Graded No. 1.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Out of 41,711 cars of spring wheat inspected at Duluth from July 15 to Dec. 31, 1918, 35,189 cars, or 84 per cent, were graded No. 1, according to reports of licensed inspectors made to the bureau of agriculture, United States Department of Agriculture, and made public here.

Getting Data on Allied Needs.

Washington, Feb. 24.—In anticipation of Congressional action authorizing the War Finance corporation to assist in financing foreign trade transactions, the corporation, in co-operation with the Treasury and the War Trade board, has gathered information as to possible needs of Allied countries for imports from the United States in the next few months. Many orders, officials declared, would have been placed before this but for difficulties of obtaining adequate credits in the United States.

BIG SUPPLY BILLS HAVE POOR SHOW

ARMY, NAVY AND POST OFFICE MEASURES LIKELY TO FAIL IN THIS CONGRESS.

WILL GO TO EXTRA SESSION

Senator Johnson Always Has Interested Audience When He Speaks—Quin Says Some Harsh Things About the General Staff.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington—Although the leaders in congress are making extraordinary efforts to close up business, there is a general belief that at least half a dozen of the big supply bills will have failed to pass when the gavel falls, which ends the Sixty-fifth congress. It seems altogether likely that among the measures which will fail will be the navy bill and the army bill, both of vital necessity for the government at this time, when the country is emerging from war.

The hitch on the naval bill is on account of the extensive three-year program which is said by some to be advanced by the president to be used as a club to bring certain nations to terms in the peace negotiations. The opposition to that program in the house, in view of the fact that it was known to be desired by the president, was larger than expected. In the senate there is more independence and no limit to debate and it would not be surprising to see a long talk on the naval bill.

U. S. Ships in Every Port.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—An American merchant marine carrying the American flag into every port of the world is the accomplishment of Edward S. Hurley, chairman of the Shipping board, hopes to see realized through the combined efforts of all lines of business, he told the members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association today. A thoroughly democratic exchange of views is Mr. Hurley's scheme for laying the basis of the necessary legislation.

Not a Bad Old Custom.

Until recent years there was a most respectable old inn in Warwickshire, England, the proprietor of which was accustomed to invite all his patrons to accompany him and his wife Sunday mornings to a church directly opposite the inn. On returning from service each customer was expected to partake of refreshments offered by the hospitable landlord free of charge.

This picture was taken on the deck of the transport on which he recently returned.

TO FURNISH NEEDED DATA

Division in Department of Labor That Will Encourage Development of Building Announced.

Creation of a new division in the department of labor, to interest the nation in public works and private construction, was announced by Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson.

It will gather and distribute information to enable private industries to make the transition from a war to a peace basis without serious interruption, "obviating uncertainty or hesitation for want of the practical data upon which business judgment must depend," the official announcement says.

Louis F. Post of Chicago, assistant secretary of labor, in a statement asserting that the government does not look forward to any unemployment crisis and that there is no reason for alarm over the future, urged a revival of building to tide over the period of industrial reconstruction.

"Many municipalities throughout the country," Mr. Post added, "and many states as well have during the war either abandoned or suspended large public improvements. The federal government itself has practically abandoned its building program for the last two years."

"This accumulation of work should be undertaken at once as a means of providing buffer employment to carry us beyond the transition period and take up such unemployment slack as may result."

ORGANIZED LABOR SEEN AS FOE OF BOLSHEVISM.

"Organized American labor is the one and only great protection against bolshevism in the United States," said Attorney Francis J. Heney in his arguments for an increase in wages and betterment of working conditions of stockyards employees before Federal Judge Alschuler at Chicago, who as federal arbiter has been asked to increase the wages he fixed at a hearing early last year.

"Organized labor stands for securing improved conditions of working and living for the masses through lawful and peaceful means. Millions are driven by despair to seek these conditions by force and violence in Russia and elsewhere."

International Labor Court.

The British war cabinet is considering a proposal which may have an important bearing on future labor questions throughout the world, according to the London Express.

The proposal is to ask the peace conference, at one of its earliest sessions, to appoint a commission to inquire into the question of an international adjustment of conditions of employment and to submit plans for a permanent international court and organization to secure joint action in such matters.

"It is certain," says the newspaper, that the suggestion will be adopted, and it is also certain it will result in an organization, as part of an active league of nations, to prepare the way for international regulation of conditions of employment, which would be a death-blow to 'sweating'."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, then Back hurts and Bladder bothers you.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.
